Sen. McCarthy Probe Handed To The Senate

Elections Group Takes No Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — A Senate elections subcommittee today checked to the Senate itself the question of whether any action against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) is warranted by charges raised by Sen. Benton (D-Conn).

It filed a report which made no recommendations but declared: "The record should speak for itself. The issue raised is one for the entire Senate."

Files Are Available

It said, too, that its report and files "will be available to the Department of Justice and Bureau of Internal Revenue for any action deemed appropriate by such agencies."

Benton, in a move aimed at McCarthy's ouster from the Senate, accused McCarthy last year of fraud, perjury and deceit.

McCarthy later offered a resolution of his own calling for an investigation of Benton. Among other things, he accused the Connecticut Senator of having followed a pro-Communist line while an Assistant Secretary of State. McCarthy also filed a two million dollar libel-slander suit against Benton.

McCarthy was re-elected to the Senate in last fall's election. Benton was defeated.

Chairman Hennings (D-Mo) told reporters the report was agreed to by the full three-member elections subcommittee. In addition to himself, Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz) and Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) make up the group.

The report was submitted to the Senate Rules Committee, parent body of the elections unit.

Group Finds Fault

While saying the report and its files would be available to the justice department and internal revenue bureau for any appropriate action, the subcommittee added:

"This does not, however, resolve the issue presented by Senate resolution 187 (the resolution filed by Benton asking for an investigation of McCarthy), which is a matter that transcends partisan politics and goes to the very core of the Senate body's authority, integrity and the respect in which it is held by the people of this country."

The subcommittee found fault with Benton's handling of political contributions totaling $600 he accepted from Walter Cosgriff, Salt Lake City banker. It said the Senator's acceptance of a $300 check dated Aug. 9, 1950, placed him "in a rather inconsistent position."

Fake Gas Man Robs Restaurant

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — The man said he was from the gas company and had come to fix the meter. An employe of the Crescent Restaurant and Grill in Brooklyn led him to the cellar.

The proprietor, Carmine Corbisiero, was in his cellar office today preparing a deposit slip to bank the New Year's receipts. Police said the self-identified repair man produced a gun instead of a monkey wrench and fled with $4,000 to $5,000 in cash.

Blast Is Probed

VALPARAISO, Chile, Jan. 2 (AP)—Government officials pressed their investigation tonight into the cause of the New York's Day blast which rocked this Chilean port city. The toll mounted to 51 dead and 348 injured.

New GOP Leaders

Rep. Joseph W. Martin (center), who will be speaker of the House in the new Congress which convenes today, talks here with Rep. Charles Halleck (left), Republican floor leader, and Rep. Leslie Arends, who will be assistant GOP leader. Martin is from Massachusetts, Halleck from Indiana and Arends from Illinois. Sen. Robert A. Taft, was named the Senate floor leader in yesterday's Republican caucus.

Judge Refuses Atom Spies Plea For Clemency

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — The sentencing judge today refused to spare the Rosenberg husband-wife atom spy team and their lives now rest in White House hands.

"I still feel that their crime was worse than murder," said Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman as he stood solemnly and solidly behind the death sentence he imposed on the pair nearly 21 months ago. He called them martyrs by choice.

Julius Rosenberg, 34, and his tiny, 5-foot wife Ethel, 37, are scheduled to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison within two weeks — probably the night of Jan. 15.

Judge Kaufman said the pair chose "martyrdom and to keep their lips sealed," implying they could save their lives any time they admit their guilt and name the others involved with them in a wartime Soviet spy ring.

They have appealed their convictions through every available court including the U. S. Supreme Court.

Their last recourse now is the White House. Defense Attorney Emanuel H. Bloch said he will try to get the execution delayed while he appeals to the President. Judge Kaufman has promised him all the time he needs.

President Truman might decide the fate of the Rosenbergs. Or, with the execution delayed, he might leave the decision to President-elect Eisenhower, who takes office Jan. 20.

A jury on March 29, 1951, convicted the Rosenbergs of conspiring to pass A-bomb secrets to the Russians in a wartime treason plot. The couple has always denied the charge.

Judge Kaufman on April 15, 1951, doomed them to death, the first treason sentence of its kind ever handed down in a civilian court. Radar expert Morton Sobell, 35, was convicted with them. But Judge Kaufman held his guilt less grevious and he now is serving 30 years in prison.

The Rosenbergs, American-born parents of two small sons, have been in the Sing Sing death house since the spring of 1951. They were not in court today when Judge Kaufman stood behind their sentence.

Today's Chuckle

As heroes often do.

Colors In Parade Inaugration Day To Be Limited

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Plans for the inauguration parade Jan. 20 call for a limit on the number of times the Stars and Stripes will be carried past the spectators.

"So many national flags have been carried in past parades that the requirements of standing to render honors have been excessively repetitious and have detracted from the dignity of the tribue," the Armed Services Inaugural Committee said today.

The committee will allot only one set of colors to each of the 10 parade divisions, in addition to the massed colors in the President's party.

Dock Strike Threatens East Coast Tie-up

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—A handful of AFL dock specialists struck for higher wages today, and the tiny spark blazed up from Boston to Baltimore threatening an East Coast port tieup.

Fellow-unionists in the powerful AFL International Longshoremen's Association — pictured in recent sworn testimony as a haven for thugs and hoodlums—honored the thin little picket lines and spread the strike to 60 of 143 New York piers that normally would be operating.

"It is still possible that the whole port may be tied up," warned James J. Kirk, a strike leader.

Cargo handling also was affected in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Yonkers, N. Y.

Federal mediators got the employers and the striking weighers, scalesmen and samplers to agree to peace talks this evening. But there was little immediate optimism.

The 462 striking weighers, scalesmen and samplers on the East Coast all belong to the ILA. Their job is to weigh uncrated cargo on the docks to make sure the amounts specified are correct.

The samplers also test such items as sugar to see that it is up to standard.

They are demanding a 30 cents an hour boost in wages that now range from $1.87 to $2.20 an hour, plus pension and welfare clauses worth an additional 12 cents. They have turned down a 25 cents an hour package.

Their strike alone would affect only such uncrated cargoes as sugar, coffee, hides, cocoa, beans, tin—in all about 100 items are shipped in bulk.

However, Joseph P. Ryan asked his 65,000 East Coast longshoremen to honor their picket lines, even if manned by only a single striker. Thus all cargo on picketed piers was tied up.

Woman Sentenced In Check Forgery

FARIMONT, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP)—Mrs. Maxine Virginia Butler of Martinsburg was sentenced today to 18 months in the Federal Reformatory for Women at Alderson for cashing stolen government checks.

The sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins, before whom Mrs. Butler had pleaded guilty to charges that she cashed two stolen checks for $33.38 each.

She is the mother of four children, and her husband is in the Navy.

Truman Asks Bill For Added Deductions For Presidents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — President Truman today asked Congress to give President-elect Eisenhower permission to begin deducting living expenses from his taxable income immediately.

The President also asked that both Vice President-elect Nixon and Speaker-designate Martin of the House be permitted to deduct living expenses from their taxable incomes.

Truman addressed his requests his most generous action yet toward the victorious Republicans, to the ranking Democrats and Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee.

The President now receives a salary of $100,000 and a tax-free expense allowance of $50,000. Under this arrangement, Truman said, a President with no dependents other than his wife now has a maximum tax liability of more than $56,000, or better than one-third of his total compensation.

Under the changes made last year he said, the tax liability of the next President will climb to more than $95,000 a year, that of the Vice President to almost $15,000 and that of the Speaker (who gets a special living expense deduction of $3,000 as a member of Congress) to over $13,000.

The President sent to the legislators the draft of a bill providing that special living expense deductions be authorized for the new President, Vice President and Speaker up to maximum amounts of $50,000, $10,000 and $10,000, respectively.

UMT Advocates Hold Conference With Eisenhower

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — A leading advocate of universal military training conferred with President-elect Eisenhower today and said afterward "we both want to achieve the same thing—the solution of the problem."

Dr. Karl T. Compton added, that "it is one of these difficult problems to which a solution has yet to be found."

Compton is acting chairman of the National Security Training Commission, which has recommended that U.M.T. be put into effect at once.

He told newsmen there was "no conflict" between the general's views and the commission recommendation, but that he did not know what actual decision Eisenhower would make regarding the recommendation.

Eisenhower has said previously that he could not see how U. M. T. could go hand in hand with the selective service draft system now in effect. The selective service act expires in 1955.

Under U. M. T., young men would be called up by age groups so that eventually all able-bodied men would have had military training. Under selective service, men are classified on such points as age, able-bodiedness and dependents and chosen by lot.

Compton, also chairman of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology corporation, was accompanied on his visit to Eisenhower by two other members of the Security Training Commission, Lt. Gen. Raymond S. McLain and Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, both retired.

Compton said the commission had been asked to tell the general about its work and that the commission members also wanted to determine his views.

Holiday Deaths Total Hits 258

[By The Associated Press]

The toll of accidental deaths in the long New Year week end increased steadily Friday.

The over-all total was boosted to 258. This included 189 in traffic, 25 in fires and 44 in various other kinds of accidents.

The count of fatalities was begun at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday, and the tabulations will cover deaths that occur up to midnight Sunday.

Deaths during the 102-hour Christmas holiday period reached a total of 744, including a record 556 in motor vehicle accidents.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 410 Americans will die in traffic accidents during the current New Year period. Traffic deaths averaged 102 over 14 hours in the first 11 months of 1952. The average included deaths which occurred days or weeks after victims were injured.

Prowler Was Only "Looking At TV"

ELKHART, Ind., Jan. 2 (AP)—Police who answered a prowler report chased Robert L. Taylor Jr., 24, over hedges and through several backyards, firing three shots.

When they put him in jail on a window peeping charge, Taylor protested: "I just wanted to watch television."

Soviet Policy Is Frozen In East Germany

Speculation Arises To Ike-Stalin Meeting

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (AP)—Allied circles said today Moscow has sent word to the Soviet high command in Germany to avoid any decisions involving policy for the next few months.

Speculation arose immediately that the Kremlin may be freezing all cold war questions, at least in Germany, against the possibility of a meeting of Prime Minister Stalin and President-elect Eisenhower.

Soviet Tactics Change

Stalin said in a Christmas statement, answering questions of a New York Times correspondent, that he regarded favorably a suggestion of diplomatic conversations looking toward a Stalin-Eisenhower meeting "on easing world tensions." However, the Russian leader has not advanced any concrete proposals for such a meeting and most Western experts viewed the idea skeptically.

The present Soviet attitude was uncovered in holiday conversations between acting U. S. High Commissioner Samuel Reber and High Soviet officials who attended a reception at the home of the American commandant, Maj. Gen. Lemuel B. Mathewson.

Reber spoke with Sergei Dengin, chief of the Soviet Control Commission, and several of Dengin's deputies. Reber said in an interview later he proposed that some solutions to current East-West differences were possible. Graciously but firmly, Dengin and the other Soviet officers declined to take up any issue whatsoever. The Russians were reported to have made it clear they would be unable to act on such matters for several months.

Withholds Nature

While Reber withheld the nature of the problems he attempted to bring up, there is a standing list of them irking the Western Powers. They include the restrictions on the West Berlin borders, the blocking of Allied patrols from the Soviet zone autobahn, interzonal trade and Communist threats to tighten the Squeeze on Western Berlin.

British and French authorities said they had felt the same atmosphere as Reber experienced in their recent social contacts with Soviet Gen. Vassily Chuikov and his staff.

Western officials have been surmising lately that Chuikov, head of the Soviet Control Commission and also commander of the 300,000-man Red Army in Germany, may be due for transfer. He has been here almost four years.

Man Attempts Rescue, Drowns

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 2. (AP)—A 33-year-old West Virginian, still weak from surgery, drowned in nearby Eagle Lake today along with three terrified children he was trying to save from the icy waters.

The children, who had been ice skating, were Tam Taylor McCausland, 9; Eddie Merchant, 10, and John Carlin, 12, all residents of neighboring Bridgeport.

The passer-by who plunged into the partly frozen lake in a vain attempt to save them was identified as Leonard Jeffers, released from a hospital last week after surgery.

David Saunders, another of five boys who had been skating on the lake, told police this story:

All four along with another youngster, Jimmie Gullick, went to the ice-coated lake in late afternoon.

The McCausland, Merchant and Carlin boys skated to a point near a dam at one end of the lake where the ice gave way beneath them.

The other two rushed to their aid by trying to shove a log toward the struggling youngsters, but were unable to reach them.

Then they called for help to Jeffers who was driving by en route to his home.

Father Kills Girl's Sailor Companion

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 2. (AP)—Police reported that W. L. Etchison, 47, a carpenter, last night shot and killed one of six Navy sailors his daughter had brought home with her mother's approval.

Dead from a shotgun charge in the chest was Lester Dale Schoonover, 21, of the U. S. landing ship Cabildo.

McGranery Asks New Probe In UN Affairs

Grand Jury Investigation Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Attorney General McGranery today ordered a new and broader Federal Grand Jury investigation into charges that disloyal Americans had infiltrated the United Nations organization.

McGranery said the jury—sitting in New York—will be asked to look into "all evidence of perjury, espionage or other crimes growing out of (a previous grand jury's) presentment" concerning the U. N.

On Dec. 2 another grand jury had raised the charge of infiltration.

To Continue Inquiry

District Attorney Myles J. Lane of New York said this week he was determined to have another grand jury continue the inquiry.

However, assistant attorney general Charles B. Murray, heading the Justice Department's criminal division, said he opposed this plan unless the jury could come out with actual indictments rather than a simple presentment, such as was filed by the first jury.

Presentments are public reports by a grand jury which either have insufficient evidence or insufficient time in which to return indictments.

The 18-months life of the first jury automatically expired last month.

A House judiciary subcommittee has been holding hearings on allegations that State and Justice Department officials attempted to have the U. N. presentment either suppressed or delayed.

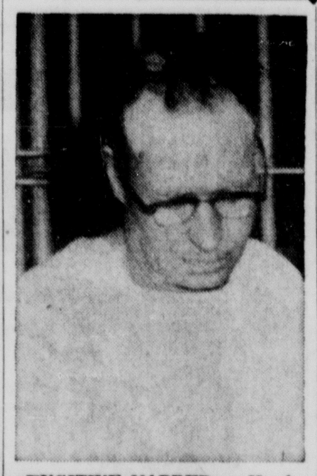
In New York, Lane said he had been authorized by McGranery to initiate the grand jury investigation immediately.

Four Subpoenas Issued

Lane said that four subpoenas already have been issued to U. N. employes or former U. N. employes, all Americans, and that they will be witnesses before the January grand jury.

That jury will sit for the first time after its selection next Tuesday.

Lane added that instructions to begin the investigation were received by him from Washington following a conference there by the attorney general, deputy attorney general Ross Malone and Murray.



FUGITIVE NABBED — Harden Collins Kemper, 50, listed by FBI as one of the 10 most wanted fugitives, was captured at his home in Glendale, Calif., Thursday. He had been working as a mechanic there for a year. He was wanted as a member of a big southwestern auto theft ring.

Allied Bombers Hit Red Troop, Supply Targets

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 3 (AP) — Allied fighter-bombers slashed Communist troop and supply targets in low level daylight sweeps over North Korea Friday after small but furious predawn infantry fights flared across the front.

If the Reds make good their boast of opening an offensive Sunday, the attack most likely would be generated in this old Communist buildup sector of the Iron Triangle.

Other Allied fighter-bombers by day cut rail lines in 23 places, destroyed or damaged four Red tanks, three railroad tunnels, more than 12 boxcars and strafed front-line troop bunkers.

In night strikes B26 light bombers reported destruction of five Communist locomotives, 30 boxcars and 40 trucks.

Ground fighting flared on the Western Front in a midnight hit and run raid by Allied infantry on a Red position near Bunker Hill. The action raged for 85 minutes in the hilly area west of the truce conference site at Panmunjom.

The Eighth Army said the raiders killed or wounded 45 Reds before withdrawing under Red mortar and artillery fire.

Sabre jets swept Mig Alley near the Manchurian frontier during the day but no contacts with Red fighters were reported.

The North Korean communique, broadcast by Pyongyang radio complained bitterly that B29 Superforts killed civilians and destroyed many houses in a New Year's raid on areas near Pyongyang, the Red Korean capital. The reference apparently was to a previously announced B29 night strike at the Sopo marshalling yards, four miles north of Pyongyang.

Group Requests Langer Ouster

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The Senate was asked today to refuse to seat Republican Sen. William Langer of North Dakota when the 83rd Congress opens tomorrow.

J. B. Bridston, a North Dakota state senator, and 14 others from the state filed a petition with Leslie Biffle, secretary of the Senate, asking that Langer be requested to "stand aside" when other senators are sworn.

Langer was re-elected last November. He is in line to become chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee.

The petition asserted that Langer's conduct, both as a senator and outside the Senate, "has been such as to indicate a willingness to subordinate the welfare of the United States to his personal financial interests."

It should be determined, the petition said, whether Langer has participated in a "conspiracy or racket" to enable many aliens illegally in the United States to remain here.

Caucus Votes No Change In Senate Rules

Filibuster Fight Due In 83rd Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Senate and House members picked party leaders for the new Congress today—Robert A. Taft among them—and senators squared off for an opening day scrap tomorrow over the old, touchy filibuster issue.

Senate Republicans thought they had headed off for the time being a row over the filibuster rule.

But a bi-partisan band of some 20 anti-filibuster senators decided to make a fight tomorrow, futile though it seemed likely to be.

Two Separate Conferences

In two separate party conferences, GOP senators did this:

1. Selected Taft as their floor leader for the 83rd Congress. Thus the man who was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief opponent for the Republican presidential nomination will be in command of efforts to put Eisenhower's legislative program through the Senate.

2. Voted down the idea that the Senate must adopt its rules—including the one on filibusters—all over again at the opening of a new session. That was a blow to senators who want to change the rules right away, with the purpose of throttling filibusters and pushing through such civil rights proposals as a fair employment practices commission.

Probably that action was enough to doom to defeat any attempt to alter the filibuster arrangements.

Even so, the anti-filibuster bloc agreed to push ahead with their drive, after new senators are sworn in and other organization business is out of the way tomorrow afternoon.

The strategy was for Sen. Anderson (D-NH) to propose that the Senate consider adoption of rules to govern its operations for the 83rd Senate in accordance with a provision in the Constitution that "each house may determine the rules of its proceedings."

If that maneuver succeds, Sen. Ives (R-NY) is to move that the Senate change the present rule which now requires a vote of two-thirds of the Senate—64 of the 96 members, to choke off a filibuster.

The idea is to cut the 64 down to 49—after debate has gone on for two weeks.

Name Floor Leaders

It was mere formality when Democrats and Republicans in both Houses and Senate named their leaders for the legislative labors ahead.

For Senate Democrats, it will be Sen. Lyndon Johnson, 44-year-old Texan, as floor leader—youngest man ever to hold the post, his aides said. In the House, it will be Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts as speaker, and former Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas as Democratic floor leader.

Mayer Failing To Get Support

PARIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Premier-designate Rene Mayer tried all day today to whip together another government for France, but most parliamentary groups played hard to get. Mayer hopes to tell President Vincent Auriol tomorrow whether he is assured of sufficient support.

Mayer is the fourth political leader called upon by Auriol to attempt to build a cabinet since Premier Antoine Pinay's right-of-center government resigned Dec. 22 because it faced certain defeat in the National Assembly over its pay-as-you-go budget for 1953.

Premier-designate Mayer is a Radical Socialist conservative financial expert who has served as finance and justice minister in previous postwar governments.

So far only his own Radical Socialists, a splinter group of rebel De Gaullists and the Peasants and Independents have promised him support. That assured him of little more than 200 votes in the 625-seat National Assembly. But Mayer still clung to the belief he could win through.

His hopes were based obviously on the possibility of affirmative replies when most of the remaining parties give their final answers tomorrow.

Indonesia Premier Resigns In Dispute

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Jan. 2 (AP) — Indonesia's intra-army dispute came to a head today with the resignation of Sultan Hamengku Buwono IX as defense minister. A reshuffle of several military commands was the aftermath.

The 40-year old sultan blasted Premier Wilopo's government in a statement for not backing his plan to cut the 200,000-man Indonesian army in half as an economy move. Many of the rank and file who are ex-guerrillas oppose the plan, fearing they will be weeded out in favor of Dutch-trained regulars.

Control of three of the army's seven divisions has been seized in the last three months by officers opposed to the sultan.

Boy, 5, Beaten By His Real Mother, Has Foster Parents

VERNON, Tex., Jan. 2 — Young Tommie Yates has a new mother—a "mama" who holds out her arms for a great big hug.

Tommie's real mother is in the Texas State Prison for women. She admitted she beat the four-year-old boy on Christmas Eve a year ago in Vernon.

The little boy with the big gray eyes lay semi-conscious for days in a Dallas hospital, underwent brain surgery and slowly took new hold on his young life. His right side is still partially paralyzed, and he can't speak too many words clearly — but he tries.

He's a two-gun five-year-old cowboy now who doesn't mind the braces on his right leg — they're good for that extra shove to get going.

Today, he walked into the office of District Judge Jess Owens. When he saw the motherly woman sitting there, he cried "Mama" and stumbled toward her.

His new "mama" is Mrs. J. H. Trussell of Hale Center, Tex. She's been visiting Tommie since September when he was brought to the county's Sunshine Home to live.

Many couples wanted to adopt Tommie after he was made a ward of the state when his mother went to prison.

"I chose in my judgment the home in which Tommie would be happiest," Judge Owens said.

In the new home at Hale Center are Trussell, a section foreman on the Sante Fe railroad, Mrs. Trussell and their son, Travis, 15. The Trussell's lost a 6-year-old son two years ago from polio.

They are demanding a 30 cents an hour boost in wages that now range from $1.87 to $2.20 an hour, plus pension and welfare clauses worth an additional 12 cents. They have turned down a 25 cents an hour package.

Their strike alone would affect only such uncrated cargoes as sugar, coffee, hides, cocoa, beans, tin—in all about 100 items are shipped in bulk.

However, Joseph P. Ryan asked his 65,000 East Coast longshoremen to honor their picket lines, even if manned by only a single striker. Thus all cargo on picketed piers was tied up.

Woman Sentenced In Check Forgery

FARIMONT, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP)—Mrs. Maxine Virginia Butler of Martinsburg was sentenced today to 18 months in the Federal Reformatory for Women at Alderson for cashing stolen government checks.

The sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins, before whom Mrs. Butler had pleaded guilty to charges that she cashed two stolen checks for $33.38 each.

She is the mother of four children, and her husband is in the Navy.

UMT Advocates Hold Conference With Eisenhower

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — A leading advocate of universal military training conferred with President-elect Eisenhower today and said afterward "we both want to achieve the same thing—the solution of the problem."

Dr. Karl T. Compton added, that "it is one of these difficult problems to which a solution has yet to be found."

Compton is acting chairman of the National Security Training Commission, which has recommended that U.M.T. be put into effect at once.

He told newsmen there was "no conflict" between the general's views and the commission recommendation, but that he did not know what actual decision Eisenhower would make regarding the recommendation.

Eisenhower has said previously that he could not see how U. M. T. could go hand in hand with the selective service draft system now in effect. The selective service act expires in 1955.

Under U. M. T., young men would be called up by age groups so that eventually all able-bodied men would have had military training. Under selective service, men are classified on such points as age, able-bodiedness and dependents and chosen by lot.

Compton, also chairman of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology corporation, was accompanied on his visit to Eisenhower by two other members of the Security Training Commission, Lt. Gen. Raymond S. McLain and Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, both retired.

Compton said the commission had been asked to tell the general about its work and that the commission members also wanted to determine his views.

Holiday Deaths Total Hits 258

[By The Associated Press]

The toll of accidental deaths in the long New Year week end increased steadily Friday.

The over-all total was boosted to 258. This included 189 in traffic, 25 in fires and 44 in various other kinds of accidents.

The count of fatalities was begun at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday, and the tabulations will cover deaths that occur up to midnight Sunday.

Deaths during the 102-hour Christmas holiday period reached a total of 744, including a record 556 in motor vehicle accidents.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 410 Americans will die in traffic accidents during the current New Year period. Traffic deaths averaged 102 over 14 hours in the first 11 months of 1952. The average included deaths which occurred days or weeks after victims were injured.

Prowler Was Only "Looking At TV"

ELKHART, Ind., Jan. 2 (AP)—Police who answered a prowler report chased Robert L. Taylor Jr., 24, over hedges and through several backyards, firing three shots.

When they put him in jail on a window peeping charge, Taylor protested: "I just wanted to watch television."

Soviet Policy Is Frozen In East Germany

Speculation Arises To Ike-Stalin Meeting

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (AP)—Allied circles said today Moscow has sent word to the Soviet high command in Germany to avoid any decisions involving policy for the next few months.

Speculation arose immediately that the Kremlin may be freezing all cold war questions, at least in Germany, against the possibility of a meeting of Prime Minister Stalin and President-elect Eisenhower.

Soviet Tactics Change

Stalin said in a Christmas statement, answering questions of a New York Times correspondent, that he regarded favorably a suggestion of diplomatic conversations looking toward a Stalin-Eisenhower meeting "on easing world tensions." However, the Russian leader has not advanced any concrete proposals for such a meeting and most Western experts viewed the idea skeptically.

The present Soviet attitude was uncovered in holiday conversations between acting U. S. High Commissioner Samuel Reber and High Soviet officials who attended a reception at the home of the American commandant, Maj. Gen. Lemuel B. Mathewson.

Reber spoke with Sergei Dengin, chief of the Soviet Control Commission, and several of Dengin's deputies. Reber said in an interview later he proposed that some solutions to current East-West differences were possible. Graciously but firmly, Dengin and the other Soviet officers declined to take up any issue whatsoever. The Russians were reported to have made it clear they would be unable to act on such matters for several months.

Withholds Nature

While Reber withheld the nature of the problems he attempted to bring up, there is a standing list of them irking the Western Powers. They include the restrictions on the West Berlin borders, the blocking of Allied patrols from the Soviet zone autobahn, interzonal trade and Communist threats to tighten the Squeeze on Western Berlin.

British and French authorities said they had felt the same atmosphere as Reber experienced in their recent social contacts with Soviet Gen. Vassily Chuikov and his staff.

Western officials have been surmising lately that Chuikov, head of the Soviet Control Commission and also commander of the 300,000-man Red Army in Germany, may be due for transfer. He has been here almost four years.

Man Attempts Rescue, Drowns

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 2. (AP)—A 33-year-old West Virginian, still weak from surgery, drowned in nearby Eagle Lake today along with three terrified children he was trying to save from the icy waters.

The children, who had been ice skating, were Tam Taylor McCausland, 9; Eddie Merchant, 10, and John Carlin, 12, all residents of neighboring Bridgeport.

The passer-by who plunged into the partly frozen lake in a vain attempt to save them was identified as Leonard Jeffers, released from a hospital last week after surgery.

David Saunders, another of five boys who had been skating on the lake, told police this story:

All four along with another youngster, Jimmie Gullick, went to the ice-coated lake in late afternoon.

The McCausland, Merchant and Carlin boys skated to a point near a dam at one end of the lake where the ice gave way beneath them.

The other two rushed to their aid by trying to shove a log toward the struggling youngsters, but were unable to reach them.

Then they called for help to Jeffers who was driving by en route to his home.

Father Kills Girl's Sailor Companion

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 2. (AP)—Police reported that W. L. Etchison, 47, a carpenter, last night shot and killed one of six Navy sailors his daughter had brought home with her mother's approval.

Dead from a shotgun charge in the chest was Lester Dale Schoonover, 21, of the U. S. landing ship Cabildo.

McGranery Asks New Probe In UN Affairs

Grand Jury Investigation Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Attorney General McGranery today ordered a new and broader Federal Grand Jury investigation into charges that disloyal Americans had infiltrated the United Nations organization.

McGranery said the jury—sitting in New York—will be asked to look into "all evidence of perjury, espionage or other crimes growing out of (a previous grand jury's) presentment" concerning the U. N.

On Dec. 2 another grand jury had raised the charge of infiltration.

To Continue Inquiry

District Attorney Myles J. Lane of New York said this week he was determined to have another grand jury continue the inquiry.

However, assistant attorney general Charles B. Murray, heading the Justice Department's criminal division, said he opposed this plan unless the jury could come out with actual indictments rather than a simple presentment, such as was filed by the first jury.

Presentments are public reports by a grand jury which either have insufficient evidence or insufficient time in which to return indictments.

The 18-months life of the first jury automatically expired last month.

A House judiciary subcommittee has been holding hearings on allegations that State and Justice Department officials attempted to have the U. N. presentment either suppressed or delayed.

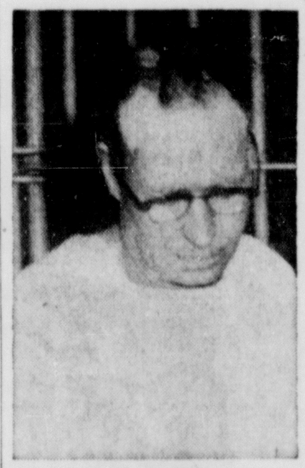
In New York, Lane said he had been authorized by McGranery to initiate the grand jury investigation immediately.

Four Subpoenas Issued

Lane said that four subpoenas already have been issued to U. N. employes or former U. N. employes, all Americans, and that they will be witnesses before the January grand jury.

That jury will sit for the first time after its selection next Tuesday.

Lane added that instructions to begin the investigation were received by him from Washington following a conference there by the attorney general, deputy attorney general Ross Malone and Murray.



FUGITIVE NABBED — Harden Collins Kemper, 50, listed by FBI as one of the 10 most wanted fugitives, was captured at his home in Glendale, Calif., Thursday. He had been working as a mechanic there for a year. He was wanted as a member of a big southwestern auto theft ring.

Allied Bombers Hit Red Troop, Supply Targets

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 3 (AP) — Allied fighter-bombers slashed Communist troop and supply targets in low level daylight sweeps over North Korea Friday after small but furious predawn infantry fights flared across the front.

If the Reds make good their boast of opening an offensive Sunday, the attack most likely would be generated in this old Communist buildup sector of the Iron Triangle.

Other Allied fighter-bombers by day cut rail lines in 23 places, destroyed or damaged four Red tanks, three railroad tunnels, more than 12 boxcars and strafed front-line troop bunkers.

In night strikes B26 light bombers reported destruction of five Communist locomotives, 30 boxcars and 40 trucks.

Ground fighting flared on the Western Front in a midnight hit and run raid by Allied infantry on a Red position near Bunker Hill. The action raged for 85 minutes in the hilly area west of the truce conference site at Panmunjom.

The Eighth Army said the raiders killed or wounded 45 Reds before withdrawing under Red mortar and artillery fire.

Sabre jets swept Mig Alley near the Manchurian frontier during the day but no contacts with Red fighters were reported.

The North Korean communique, broadcast by Pyongyang radio complained bitterly that B29 Superforts killed civilians and destroyed many houses in a New Year's raid on areas near Pyongyang, the Red Korean capital. The reference apparently was to a previously announced B29 night strike at the Sopo marshalling yards, four miles north of Pyongyang.

Group Requests Langer Ouster

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The Senate was asked today to refuse to seat Republican Sen. William Langer of North Dakota when the 83rd Congress opens tomorrow.

J. B. Bridston, a North Dakota state senator, and 14 others from the state filed a petition with Leslie Biffle, secretary of the Senate, asking that Langer be requested to "stand aside" when other senators are sworn.

Langer was re-elected last November. He is in line to become chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee.

The petition asserted that Langer's conduct, both as a senator and outside the Senate, "has been such as to indicate a willingness to subordinate the welfare of the United States to his personal financial interests."

It should be determined, the petition said, whether Langer has participated in a "conspiracy or racket" to enable many aliens illegally in the United States to remain here.

Caucus Votes No Change In Senate Rules

Filibuster Fight Due In 83rd Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Senate and House members picked party leaders for the new Congress today—Robert A. Taft among them—and senators squared off for an opening day scrap tomorrow over the old, touchy filibuster issue.

Senate Republicans thought they had headed off for the time being a row over the filibuster rule.

But a bi-partisan band of some 20 anti-filibuster senators decided to make a fight tomorrow, futile though it seemed likely to be.

Two Separate Conferences

In two separate party conferences, GOP senators did this:

1. Selected Taft as their floor leader for the 83rd Congress. Thus the man who was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief opponent for the Republican presidential nomination will be in command of efforts to put Eisenhower's legislative program through the Senate.

2. Voted down the idea that the Senate must adopt its rules—including the one on filibusters—all over again at the opening of a new session. That was a blow to senators who want to change the rules right away, with the purpose of throttling filibusters and pushing through such civil rights proposals as a fair employment practices commission.

Probably that action was enough to doom to defeat any attempt to alter the filibuster arrangements.

Even so, the anti-filibuster bloc agreed to push ahead with their drive, after new senators are sworn in and other organization business is out of the way tomorrow afternoon.

The strategy was for Sen. Anderson (D-NH) to propose that the Senate consider adoption of rules to govern its operations for the 83rd Senate in accordance with a provision in the Constitution that "each house may determine the rules of its proceedings."

If that maneuver succeds, Sen. Ives (R-NY) is to move that the Senate change the present rule which now requires a vote of two-thirds of the Senate—64 of the 96 members, to choke off a filibuster.

The idea is to cut the 64 down to 49—after debate has gone on for two weeks.

Name Floor Leaders

It was mere formality when Democrats and Republicans in both Houses and Senate named their leaders for the legislative labors ahead.

For Senate Democrats, it will be Sen. Lyndon Johnson, 44-year-old Texan, as floor leader—youngest man ever to hold the post, his aides said. In the House, it will be Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts as speaker, and former Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas as Democratic floor leader.

Mayer Failing To Get Support

PARIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Premier-designate Rene Mayer tried all day today to whip together another government for France, but most parliamentary groups played hard to get. Mayer hopes to tell President Vincent Auriol tomorrow whether he is assured of sufficient support.

Mayer is the fourth political leader called upon by Auriol to attempt to build a cabinet since Premier Antoine Pinay's right-of-center government resigned Dec. 22 because it faced certain defeat in the National Assembly over its pay-as-you-go budget for 1953.

Premier-designate Mayer is a Radical Socialist conservative financial expert who has served as finance and justice minister in previous postwar governments.

So far only his own Radical Socialists, a splinter group of rebel De Gaullists and the Peasants and Independents have promised him support. That assured him of little more than 200 votes in the 625-seat National Assembly. But Mayer still clung to the belief he could win through.

His hopes were based obviously on the possibility of affirmative replies when most of the remaining parties give their final answers tomorrow.

Indonesia Premier Resigns In Dispute

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Jan. 2 (AP) — Indonesia's intra-army dispute came to a head today with the resignation of Sultan Hamengku Buwono IX as defense minister. A reshuffle of several military commands was the aftermath.

The 40-year old sultan blasted Premier Wilopo's government in a statement for not backing his plan to cut the 200,000-man Indonesian army in half as an economy move. Many of the rank and file who are ex-guerrillas oppose the plan, fearing they will be weeded out in favor of Dutch-trained regulars.

Control of three of the army's seven divisions has been seized in the last three months by officers opposed to the sultan.

Truman Asks Bill For Added Deductions For Presidents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — President Truman today asked Congress to give President-elect Eisenhower permission to begin deducting living expenses from his taxable income immediately.

The President also asked that both Vice President-elect Nixon and Speaker-designate Martin of the House be permitted to deduct living expenses from their taxable incomes.

Truman addressed his requests his most generous action yet toward the victorious Republicans, to the ranking Democrats and Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee.

The President now receives a salary of $100,000 and a tax-free expense allowance of $50,000. Under this arrangement, Truman said, a President with no dependents other than his wife now has a maximum tax liability of more than $56,000, or better than one-third of his total compensation.

Under the changes made last year he said, the tax liability of the next President will climb to more than $95,000 a year, that of the Vice President to almost $15,000 and that of the Speaker (who gets a special living expense deduction of $3,000 as a member of Congress) to over $13,000.

The President sent to the legislators the draft of a bill providing that special living expense deductions be authorized for the new President, Vice President and Speaker up to maximum amounts of $50,000, $10,000 and $10,000, respectively.

Boy, 5, Beaten By His Real Mother, Has Foster Parents

VERNON, Tex., Jan. 2 — Young Tommie Yates has a new mother—a "mama" who holds out her arms for a great big hug.

Tommie's real mother is in the Texas State Prison for women. She admitted she beat the four-year-old boy on Christmas Eve a year ago in Vernon.

The little boy with the big gray eyes lay semi-conscious for days in a Dallas hospital, underwent brain surgery and slowly took new hold on his young life. His right side is still partially paralyzed, and he can't speak too many words clearly — but he tries.

He's a two-gun five-year-old cowboy now who doesn't mind the braces on his right leg — they're good for that extra shove to get going.

Today, he walked into the office of District Judge Jess Owens. When he saw the motherly woman sitting there, he cried "Mama" and stumbled toward her.

His new "mama" is Mrs. J. H. Trussell of Hale Center, Tex. She's been visiting Tommie since September when he was brought to the county's Sunshine Home to live.

Many couples wanted to adopt Tommie after he was made a ward of the state when his mother went to prison.

"I chose in my judgment the home in which Tommie would be happiest," Judge Owens said.

UN Cites Stand On Attempts To Oust Communists

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 2. (AP)—The United Nations made public today its side of the record in the drive to oust American Communist employes, indicating that since 1948 it had asked the State Department for information in 1,946 cases.

Responses were slow and incomplete, the U. N. statement said. Most of the requests for information were directed through the U. S. mission to the U. N. here. There was some overlapping in names and an initial list of 377 in 1948 contained the names of 18 persons later questioned by a Senate subcommittee, including 14 who refused to answer on grounds of self-incrimination, the statement said, adding that it took two years to get answers on that first list.

U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie made the information public by releasing the text of a letter he sent to Warren Austin, chief U. S. delegate, last Dec. 23, and the text of a covering statement by Byron Price, assistant secretary-general in charge of administrative and personnel affairs in the U. N.

Lie's letter to Austin said he was sending the factual summary because of testimony last Dec. 10 by the State Department officials before the U. S. Senate subcommittee on internal security.

An aide said Lie decided to make the letter public today because there has been no answer to it and because only parts of the Price summary were quoted by Senate subcommittee members.

Price's summary emphasized that Lie was unable to fire employes when the State Department gave only one word adverse answers without evidence, some of these not even in writing.

In at least four cases the State Department withdrew adverse comments later, Price's statement said. The U. N. had to have evidence to act on, Price said. Appeals now before an administrative tribunal might cost the U. N. a half million dollars in damages if Lie's firings are reversed.

In recent weeks 31 American employes have been fired or their jobs ended in some other manner. The State Department yesterday named 11 others as still employed despite alleged communist affiliations. One of these, David Weintraub, an economic expert, hotly denied he is or ever was a Communist.

United States Has 126,845 Casualties In Korean War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The Communists have suffered 10 times as many casualties as the United States in Korean fighting, the Defense Department said today in a year-end summary.

The department placed the toll of enemy casualties inflicted by United Nations troops at 1,299,961, compared with 126,845 U. S. killed, wounded, missing and captured. The Communist casualties were corrected to Dec. 1, the U. S. figures to Dec. 26.

The best estimates of total U. N. casualties comes from a Dec. 13 survey, which indicated 364,370 U. N. troops had been killed, wounded, missing or captured up to that date. The same survey estimated 1,764,940 for Communist casualties, including 349,000 wiped out by plagues and illnesses.

U. S. airplane losses apparently have outnumbered those of the enemy 2 to 1. Despite this, the Air Force reported the F86 Sabre jets are maintaining a 9 to 1 combat ratio over the Russian-built MIG15 — shooting down nine MIGs for every F86 lost.

The high American air losses were explained by the fact that U. S. air units are continually bombing enemy strongholds heavily defended by anti-aircraft guns and sometimes by fighter planes.

Communist aircraft rarely have attacked any United Nations ground stations and only infrequently engaged U. N. planes in aerial combat.

A Navy summary showed the loss of 1,016 Navy and Marine aircraft in combat or from operational causes from the start of the Korean War through Dec. 1.

The total included 464 lost in action and 552 listed as operational losses.

The summary estimated that Navy and Marine Corps aircraft have accounted for more than 100,000 enemy troops, and that Naval aircraft have destroyed 92 enemy planes.

The Air Force reported it lost 685 planes through Dec. 31 — 95 in aerial combat, 485 from enemy ground fire, and 103 from other causes.

The Air Force estimated it has destroyed 700 enemy planes — including 543 MIGs — probably destroyed 125, and has damaged 789.

Until 1866, the American flag was made of English-manufactured bunting.

Cave Falls In, Three Boys Killed

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 2 (AP) — A "hideout" cave fell in on three boys while they played today, killing two instantly. The third escaped.

Dead were Gerald Groessl, 12, and Rodney Bynumn, 16.

Jack Vaughn, 14, who escaped, said he had just carried a bucket of dirt from the underground tunnel when it collapsed.

"I noticed the sides seemed a little weak," the youth told sheriff's deputies. "I told the others they had better come out and they just laughed.

No Commitments

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Several Senators reported today that President-elect Eisenhower has assured them he will not make any commitments during his talks with Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain next week.

Discuss Peace Plan

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP) — V. K. Krishna Menon, head of India's United Nations delegation, talked with Deputy Prime Minister Anthony Eden today on possible moves by India toward a Korean peace plan.

Most Wanted Thief Caught

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 2 (AP)—The convicted head of a southwestern auto theft ring, who became one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives when he broke bond 13 months ago, has been captured.

Harden Collins Kemper, 50, surrendered to FBI agents without resistance last night. Officers arrested him in his Glendale, Ariz., home, where he has lived with his two sons, 17 and 11. Using an assumed name, Kemper had worked as a $100-a-week auto mechanic.

Kemper's bond was set today at $50,000 by U. S. Commissioner C. B. Wilson. He was committed to Maricopa County jail after telling Wilson he could not post bond.

Gerald B. Norris, agent in charge of the FBI office here said Kemper took the name of Harvey Charles Kennedy when he disappeared from Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 17, 1951, instead of reporting to the U. S. marshal as ordered. Kemper had been sentenced to four years in jail in October, 1951, after the auto theft ring was smashed. He is temporarily released to settle a personal law suit.

Responses were slow and incomplete, the U. N. statement said. Most of the requests for information were directed through the U. S. mission to the U. N. here. There was some overlapping in names and an initial list of 377 in 1948 contained the names of 18 persons later questioned by a Senate subcommittee, including 14 who refused to answer on grounds of self-incrimination, the statement said, adding that it took two years to get answers on that first list.

U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie made the information public by releasing the text of a letter he sent to Warren Austin, chief U. S. delegate, last Dec. 23, and the text of a covering statement by Byron Price, assistant secretary-general in charge of administrative and personnel affairs in the U. N.

Lie's letter to Austin said he was sending the factual summary because of testimony last Dec. 10 by the State Department officials before the U. S. Senate subcommittee on internal security.

An aide said Lie decided to make the letter public today because there has been no answer to it and because only parts of the Price summary were quoted by Senate subcommittee members.

Price's summary emphasized that Lie was unable to fire employes when the State Department gave only one word adverse answers without evidence, some of these not even in writing.

In at least four cases the State Department withdrew adverse comments later, Price's statement said. The U. N. had to have evidence to act on, Price said. Appeals now before an administrative tribunal might cost the U. N. a half million dollars in damages if Lie's firings are reversed.

In recent weeks 31 American employes have been fired or their jobs ended in some other manner. The State Department yesterday named 11 others as still employed despite alleged communist affiliations. One of these, David Weintraub, an economic expert, hotly denied he is or ever was a Communist.

United States Has 126,845 Casualties In Korean War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The Communists have suffered 10 times as many casualties as the United States in Korean fighting, the Defense Department said today in a year-end summary.

The department placed the toll of enemy casualties inflicted by United Nations troops at 1,299,961, compared with 126,845 U. S. killed, wounded, missing and captured. The Communist casualties were corrected to Dec. 1, the U. S. figures to Dec. 26.

The best estimates of total U. N. casualties comes from a Dec. 13 survey, which indicated 364,370 U. N. troops had been killed, wounded, missing or captured up to that date. The same survey estimated 1,764,940 for Communist casualties, including 349,000 wiped out by plagues and illnesses.

U. S. airplane losses apparently have outnumbered those of the enemy 2 to 1. Despite this, the Air Force reported the F86 Sabre jets are maintaining a 9 to 1 combat ratio over the Russian-built MIG15 — shooting down nine MIGs for every F86 lost.

The high American air losses were explained by the fact that U. S. air units are continually bombing enemy strongholds heavily defended by anti-aircraft guns and sometimes by fighter planes.

Communist aircraft rarely have attacked any United Nations ground stations and only infrequently engaged U. N. planes in aerial combat.

A Navy summary showed the loss of 1,016 Navy and Marine aircraft in combat or from operational causes from the start of the Korean War through Dec. 1.

The total included 464 lost in action and 552 listed as operational losses.

The summary estimated that Navy and Marine Corps aircraft have accounted for more than 100,000 enemy troops, and that Naval aircraft have destroyed 92 enemy planes.

The Air Force reported it lost 685 planes through Dec. 31 — 95 in aerial combat, 485 from enemy ground fire, and 103 from other causes.

The Air Force estimated it has destroyed 700 enemy planes — including 543 MIGs — probably destroyed 125, and has damaged 789.

Until 1866, the American flag was made of English-manufactured bunting.

Cave Falls In, Three Boys Killed

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 2 (AP) — A "hideout" cave fell in on three boys while they played today, killing two instantly. The third escaped.

Dead were Gerald Groessl, 12, and Rodney Bynumn, 16.

Jack Vaughn, 14, who escaped, said he had just carried a bucket of dirt from the underground tunnel when it collapsed.

"I noticed the sides seemed a little weak," the youth told sheriff's deputies. "I told the others they had better come out and they just laughed.

No Commitments

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Several Senators reported today that President-elect Eisenhower has assured them he will not make any commitments during his talks with Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain next week.

Discuss Peace Plan

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP) — V. K. Krishna Menon, head of India's United Nations delegation, talked with Deputy Prime Minister Anthony Eden today on possible moves by India toward a Korean peace plan.

Most Wanted Thief Caught

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 2 (AP)—The convicted head of a southwestern auto theft ring, who became one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives when he broke bond 13 months ago, has been captured.

Harden Collins Kemper, 50, surrendered to FBI agents without resistance last night. Officers arrested him in his Glendale, Ariz., home, where he has lived with his two sons, 17 and 11. Using an assumed name, Kemper had worked as a $100-a-week auto mechanic.

Kemper's bond was set today at $50,000 by U. S. Commissioner C. B. Wilson. He was committed to Maricopa County jail after telling Wilson he could not post bond.

Gerald B. Norris, agent in charge of the FBI office here said Kemper took the name of Harvey Charles Kennedy when he disappeared from Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 17, 1951, instead of reporting to the U. S. marshal as ordered. Kemper had been sentenced to four years in jail in October, 1951, after the auto theft ring was smashed. He is temporarily released to settle a personal law suit.

5,814 State Men Drafted Last Year

State Selective Service headquarters reported yesterday it sent 5,814 young Maryland men into the armed forces in 1952.

At least as many more will be drafted in 1953, state Director Henry C. Stanwood predicted.

Sometime early in the year, Col. Stanwood said, it will become necessary to start taking 19-year-olds in order to meet the state's monthly quota.

State headquarters received authorization from Washington to start drafting 19-year-olds if necessary to meet the state's February quota of 759. Stanwood said, however, it probably will not be necessary until after February.

Saturday Morning, January 3, 1953

The 83rd Congress

The Congress opening today is the 21st to contain 96 senators and 435 representatives. The accession of New Mexico and Arizona in 1912 as the 47th and 48th states, respectively, brought the Senate seats up to 96, and reapportionment after the 1910 census brought the House seats up to 435 in 1913. (The House convening in 1911 had had 391 seats.)

Then Congress decided that 435 House seats were enough. When the 63rd Congress met in 1913, there was one House seat for every 211,430 inhabitants of the 48 states as shown by the 1910 census. When the 83rd Congress meets in 1953, there will be one House seat for every 346,431 inhabitants of the 48 states as shown by the 1950 census.

This will be the 10th Congress to open its first regular session in January, approximately two months after being elected. Before the adoption of the 20th Amendment in 1933, each Congress opened its first regular session in the December of the year following its election—that is, 13 months after it had been elected. (However, many earlier Congresses had been called into special session prior to regular sessions.)

The 83rd Congress will be the second in 22 years with a Republican majority in both branches. No party has ever controlled both branches at the same time with majorities so slim as those of the GOP in the new Congress. (The 1931-33 Congress had a Republican Senate, a Democratic House.)

The speaker of the new House will be Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, who was speaker also in 1947-49. This will be the second time in the 20th Century that the speakership has gone to the same man after an interval—Sam Rayburn (D.) of Texas was speaker in 1940-47 and 1949-53. (Thomas B. Reed, R., Me., was speaker 1889-1891 and 1895-99.)

The retiring vice-president, Alben W. Barkley (D.), is entitled to preside over the new Senate until he goes out of office on January 20. When the new vice president, Richard M. Nixon, is sworn in on January 20 at the age of 40, he will be the second youngest vice president—John C. Breckenridge was 36 when inaugurated in 1857. (Theodore Roosevelt was 42 in 1901.)

The senator of longest service is Walter F. George (D.) of Georgia, 74, who entered the Senate in 1922. The representative of longest service is ex-Speaker Rayburn, 70, who dates back to 1913. Neither of these has served so long in Congress as Carl Hayden (D.) of Arizona, 75, who was a representative from 1912 to 1927, has been in the Senate since 1927.

In the new Senate the political alignment is 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats, one Independent (Morse of Oregon). Sixty of the 96 members are holdovers. Twenty were re-elected, 14 Republicans, six Democrats, so that 80 (83 per cent) of the old members are back again.

There are 16 new senators. Three Republicans replaced Republicans and two Democrats replaced Democrats. Seven Republicans took seats from Democrats, four Democrats took seats from Republicans.

The alignment in the new House is 221 Republicans, 211 Democrats, one Independent (Reams of Ohio, who usually votes with the Republicans), two vacancies because of death (Sabath of Illinois, Cox of Georgia, both Democrats). Of the 433 members of the new House 352 (81 per cent) were also in the 82nd Congress. Fifty Republicans and 31 Democrats are new.

Costly Admonishment

In the scrambling days following June 1950, the Air Force proposed, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff seconded the motion, that a string of five atomic bomber bases be built along the Atlantic coast of North Africa. It was what they call around the Pentagon a "crash" job—get it done, no matter how. The bases were to be completed by mid-1952. The cost was to be a maximum of $300,000,000.

Late last summer Senator Lyndon Johnson's Armed Services Subcommittee had some harsh things to say about these bases. The committee noted that, although more than $225,000,000 had been spent, only two bases were usable, and that there had been widespread waste, corruption and confusion in the construction program.

The committee said it was the fault of the Air Force. The Air Force said it was the fault of the Army Engineers. Lt. Gen. Lewis Pick, chief of Army Engineers, said in testimony before the committee that it wasn't his fault and anyhow things were going along fine. The committee tossed the thing back at the Pentagon and said, in effect, that it wanted action.

Now Army Secretary Frank Pace reveals that he "admonished" General Pick and two colonels for falling down on the job and for not giving the Johnson committee a "clear" picture. Mr. Pace said things had been in a mess and promised the Johnson committee that better administrative liaison would be set up in the future. This "admonishment" is far from the disciplinary action the committee demanded of the secretary.

What is the present status of these air bases? A third base is coming along, but the other two probably will not be ready for another year. It now appears, too, that the total cost will be approximately $800,000,000, or nearly three times the original estimate.

Workers For Brazil

Nine-tenths as large as the United States, but with only one-third of this country's population, Brazil has vast mineral wealth, largely undeveloped, and untold agricultural possibilities. The biggest country in South America requires more man-power and is determined to get it by making immigration attractive. For its great undeveloped areas it is seeking to bring in Dutch, Italian and Portuguese settlers, in addition to more Japanese.

In the four decades ending with 1940, more than 187,000 Japanese entered Brazil. There is on foot a movement to induce 4,000 more Japanese families to migrate. Though The Netherlands has been loath to let considerable numbers of its people emigrate, there is an agreement with Brazil for an unspecified number of third and fourth generation Dutch farming and artizan families to go from Indonesia under particularly favorable terms. But Brazil hopes for 37,000 next year from The Netherlands itself.

What might be called Exhibit A as to opportunities in Brazil is that the first 100 Dutch families in Sao Paulo after four years owned their own homes and had an average income of $6,000.

How To Keep Well

Why Are You Fat?

Most of us gain weight until some time between our 25th and 30th birthdays. Thereafter the reverse should occur so that by age 60 our weight is approximately 10 per cent less than it was at 30. This would be ideal but in these days of insecurity and plenty most of us are too thin before and too fat after the age of 30.

The majority of individuals become heavier because they eat too much. The glands are blamed frequently but they are responsible in less than 3 per cent. There are other reasons why we grow fat and physicians are learning that treatment is more successful in the long run when the cause is found and eliminated. Many men and women who reach 50 slightly on the portly side acquired the excess poundage gradually. They ate too much over a long period of time and were notoriously weak willed when it came to turning down a fine meal. Those who worked under pressure or tension obtained considerable gratification when meal time rolled around; others were lonely and enjoyed the company of good food. Obese women often gained with each child because while pregnant they "ate for two" but never returned to their former weight after the baby arrived.

The psychological causes for a super-appetite are receiving nation-wide publicity. This aspect makes good reading but is hard to put into practice because these origins are so vague and deep-seated they are difficult to uncover. Such persons are able to lose 20 to 30 pounds on a low caloric diet but improvement seldom lasts and after a few weeks of "stuffing" they are back in the chubby class. Despite these disappointments the individual rarely needs the help of a psychiatrist.

The same cannot be said of the obese adolescent or teen-ager. Such boys and girls frequently are a problem and in need of professional counseling. The physician must delve into their past to discover why they feel insecure. Many suffer in this way because they are convinced they have lived under deprivations. Eating gives them a sense of security because the acquisition of fat brings with it a feeling of power. Furthermore, these youngsters are easily confused and every day is a struggle between a desire to get thin and the wish to remain "fat and powerful." Even temporary loss of weight affords satisfaction until hunger finally takes over and they proceed to regain poundage that had been shed.

Overweight is in reality a statistical term which refers to a deviation from the ideal. It is considered to be 10 per cent above the theoretical normal and as such does not allow for variations in body build. Hence poundage above the usual scale may be normal for some individuals, which may explain why these men and women are healthy even though stout.

CATARACT AND INFECTION

G. V. writes: Can a cataract result from an eye infection?

REPLY

Yes, as a complication of inflammation but in general the cause of cataract is not understood too well.

PAINFUL MANEUVER

Mrs. C. writes: For about a week I find motions like typing my apron in the back quite painful to my right shoulder. Could this be bursitis?

REPLY

Yes, this is one of the classic symptoms. Men with bursitis of the shoulder have difficulty putting the hand in the back pocket of the trousers.

LEG SYMPTOMS

F. L. writes: Why should an old gal of 65 develop weakness and vibration of the legs on walking?

REPLY

Neuritis, poor circulation, and anemia are possibilities. Perhaps the old gal ain't what she used to be.

HEAT STROKE PREVENTION

W. T. writes: How can sunstroke be prevented in a person who is susceptible?

REPLY

The best way is to stay out of the sun or, if exposure is necessary, protect the head and the nape of the neck from the direct rays. In addition, avoid exertion, drink plenty of fluids, wear loose porous clothing, and don't overeat.

FEEDING PROBLEM

Mrs. R. writes: Are twins and triplets usually breastfed?

REPLY

In general, mixed breast and formula feedings are better for twins because not many mothers have enough milk for both. Breast feeding of triplets seldom is feasible, in the first place the mother does not produce enough milk for three; and in the second, she is much too busy with their care to bother with mixed nursing and artificial feeding.

HYPERTENSION

L. P. writes: If a person's blood pressure is more than 100 plus his age, does this mean he has high blood pressure?

REPLY

Not necessarily. This old rule of thumb method of calculation is no longer used. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on high blood pressure.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

McCarthy's Financial Finagling Shocks Colleagues; Pending Oil Cases May Embarrass Ike; Air Force Pilots Lack Experience

WASHINGTON — Word of the amazing report on Senator McCarthy's weird financial dealings has shocked even some of his own Republican colleagues.

It has also aroused some of the more conservative senators, both Republican and Democratic, about the importance of protecting public esteem and respect for the world's greatest deliberative body.

The Senate Elections Committee spent more than a year probing McCarthy's complicated financial setup, his many cash deposits, and his means of concealing speculation by keeping his accounts in the names of his sister-in-law and his administrative assistant, Ray Kiermas. Repeatedly they offered him a chance to appear before the committee and explain any of the amazing data turned up by its investigators. McCarthy declined.

The evidence was so shocking that Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, one of the most respected members of the Senate and chairman of the Rules Committee, himself worked on the Elections Subcommittee to sift and study the McCarthy evidence.

It is Senator Hayden's work on the case which has convinced many conservative Democrats and Republicans that McCarthy should be asked to step aside and not take his seat until the full Senate has carefully considered the evidence.

NOTE — Republican senators who believe McCarthy should be disciplined point out 1, that the Senate Elections Committee has bared facts which the people of Wisconsin did not know about when they re-elected him; 2, that Governor Kohler of Wisconsin can appoint a Republican to take McCarthy's place, thus not upsetting the GOP balance in the Senate; 3, that the Republicans can make a good start carrying out Eisenhower's pledge to clean up corruption no matter which party is affected.

Oil Baby For Ike

Secretary of Defense Lovett is moving heaven and earth to kidnap an embarrassing baby from the doorstep of General Eisenhower before he becomes President.

It's the Justice Department's grand jury probe of the big oil companies for operating international cartels in alleged violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act; also the $67,000,000 civil suit brought by the Justice Department against certain oil companies for overcharging the government.

Lovett, himself a Republican, wants to get rid of both before the Republicans take over, because it will be extremely embarrassing for the Republicans to dismiss the two cases. It happens that the Rockefeller family contributed $85,000 to the Eisenhower campaign; H. R. Cullen, the big Texas oilman, contributed around $50,000, while other oil moguls chipped in heavily. So if Eisenhower should dismiss the two suits, it would look like a payoff.

Lovett has asked the National Security Council to consider the matter on the ground that the two suits will jeopardize the holdings of oil companies in the Near East. He and Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman have signed a report to this effect. Secretary of State Acheson has abstained from signing because his law firm represents the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Meanwhile the oil companies, especially Standard of California and Texas, are hurting their own case by spreading reports that the cases against them were inspired by Communists. They have employed the public relations firm of Hill and Knowlton, which has published a booklet of oil company-inspired editorials castigating the Federal Trade Commission and the government generally as riddled with Communists.

This charge that the U. S. Government is Communist-dominated is being sent to 67 foreign governments and to editors and "molders of public opinion" in 67 foreign countries.

NOTE 1 — The Federal Trade Commissioner who spark-plugged the carefully documented cartel report on the oil companies is Stephen Spingarn, former attorney for the Secret Service, one of the most trusted organizations in the government.

NOTE 2 — What really hurts the American oil position in the Near East is not lawsuits in the United States but British wrangling with Iran. This not only has played into Russian hands, but has helped to alienate the Arab world.

Air Force Crashes

The Air Force, studying the tragic rash of recent air crashes, frankly admits that its pilots do not have the same lengthy experience as commercial pilots.

For instance, the pilot of the Globemaster which crashed recently at Moses Lake, Wash., killing 86 GIs, was only a lieutenant, whereas in civilian aviation a pilot flying this type of plane would have 15 to 20 years experience and a rank equivalent to major or lieutenant colonel.

In fairness, it should be noted that the pilot flying the Globemaster had more than 2,000 hours of flying this type of plane and a good efficiency index. However, the Air Force frankly concedes that in civilian aviation he would have been a co-pilot, not a full-fledged pilot.

Chief reason for this is that the Air Force has too many pilots and too little gasoline. The Air Force also wants to train younger pilots, who despite inexperience make better pilots under fire than older men. That's one reason older pilots are deliberately eased on to desk jobs to make way for younger pilots.

However, if Congress would vote more appropriations to supply gasoline, then both the younger and older pilots would have more flight training.

Washington Pipeline

Senator Nixon has hinted that he, rather than Ike, may be best qualified to give fireside chats and defend the Eisenhower administration on radio and television. Nixon thinks his TV technique is better than Eisenhower's. . . . Most disturbing Korean development is that the Reds are building up their bomber force in Manchuria at an alarming rate. It now includes 75 jet bombers — capable of dropping napalm, the terrible fire bomb, over any part of our lines. Hitherto the Reds have not been able to bomb UN troops effectively. . . . Prime Minister Mossadegh has told the American embassy in Teheran he wants to fly to Washington to talk to General Eisenhower about the Iranian oil crisis. Mossadegh wants to counteract what Churchill tells Eisenhower about the oil wrangle. . . . New strong man General Naguib of Egypt also wants to come see Ike. Looks like they'll have to form a line — about 10 prime ministers are ahead of him. Robert Schuman, one of the most brilliant French Foreign ministers in years, has told friends he expects to be dropped from the next French cabinet. Too many Frenchmen are mad at Schuman for agreeing to German rearmament.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Case Of Gustavo Duran

Senator Pat McCarran and his committee have sought a method for discovering how an American citizen gets a job in the United Nations. His committee brought before them three State Department officials, Adrian S. Fisher, Carlisle H. Humelsine, John D. Hickerson, who should know all about it as that is their business. The committee was particularly interested to know who in the State Department evaluates the personnel material that comes into it from the FBI and other sources. For this these gentlemen had no adequate answer because they said that they had been instructed by the secretary of State not to tell.

On this subject, Senator McCarran issued a statement which included this:

"The evaluations made by the State Department were shown to be so faulty and so defective from a security standpoint as prima facie to justify, if not to require, an interrogation to determine if they were made as a result of subversive influence."

In relation to this, I came across the name of Gustavo Duran, who was born in Barcelona, Spain, on November 14, 1906. He studied at the Conservatory of Madrid 1923-27. He resided in Paris 1929-34. He was reactivated in the Spanish army in 1936. He resided in England 1939-40.

In 1940, he appears at Columbia University as a lecturer in Spanish; he becomes assistant director of the film division of the Latin-American department of the Museum of Modern Art in 1941; he was assistant director of the music division of the Pan American Union, 1941-43. In 1943, he becomes a member of the auxiliary foreign service of the United States and in 1946 was made special assistant to the assistant secretary of State for American Republic Affairs. Then he went to the United Nations.

When did he become a citizen of the United States? The earliest year could be 1944; it was possibly 1945, as it takes an alien at least five years to become a citizen after he has come to this country. He is reported to have said that he was naturalized in 1942, which looks wrong in view of the chronology record here.

George S. Montgomery, Jr., became curious about this and wrote Dean Acheson to inquire. He received a reply from John D. Hickerson, assistant secretary of State, which reads as follows:

Information received from the United States Mission to the United Nations indicates that Gustav (or Gustavo) Duran (or Durand), about whom you inquired in your letter of July 17, 1951, is an American national employed by the secretariat of the United Nations. He is not, therefore, an employe of the United States Government nor a representative of the United States of America to the United Nations.

"I trust that this information may be sufficient for your purpose. Further requests as to the present status of Mr. Duran may be sent to Mr. Georges Palthey, director of the bureau of personnel, United Nations Secretariat, New York 17, New York."

So, he wrote to the aforesaid Mr. Georges Palthey, and received a reply from W. P. Barrett, deputy director, bureau of personnel of the United Nations, as follows:

"With reference to your letter of 6 August 1951, please be advised that Mr. Gustavo Duran is a member of the United Nations Secretariat, employed in the Department of Social Affairs.

"I regret that the other information which you have requested is regarded as confidential, and under the United Nations rules cannot be released."

Then Montgomery went back to Hickerson and received this reply from him:

"The Department has received your letters of August 6th and 14th concerning the employment of Mr. Gustavo Duran by the United Nations.

"Under the provisions of Articles 100 and 101 of the charter of the United Nations, the secretary general is vested with the exclusive responsibility for selection of secretariat employes and member governments are enjoined from influencing his decisions. . ."

This correspondence is opposite to the testimony of Messrs. Fisher, Hickerson and Humelsine of the State Department before the McCarran Committee. They testified that a system did exist by which the State Department notified the United Nations concerning the security characteristics of any American applicant for a position in the United Nations. Trygve Lie told officials of the McCarran Committee and the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate that the United Nations asks for such biographical data.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe among the blessings of the year 1953 will come a new understanding of "liberalism" and a rescue of the word from those who in the recent past have monopolized it while at the same time imposing further and further restriction on the liberty of thought of the individual.

Fifty years ago a "liberal" was a person who didn't want the Constitution narrowly construed so that individual rights would be curtailed. Today a "liberal" is one who wants the Constitution to authorize the federal government to control through the state the life of the individual and even to legalize the "closed shop," which requires a man to surrender his beliefs in order to get or hold a job.

Cites Pope's Statement

One of the most significant pronouncements of a truly "liberal" kind in this connection has been made by Pope Pius XII in his message recently broadcast to the world. It hits directly at what is known as the "closed shop" in American trade unionism. Examining the full text of it, which has just been made available by the National Catholic Welfare Conference here, the passage concerning modern labor unions says:

"Consciences are today afflicted by other burdens . . . Access to employment or places of labor is made to depend on registration in certain parties or in organizations which deal with the distribution of employment. Such discrimination is indicative of an inexact concept of the proper function of labor unions and their proper purpose, which is the protection of the interests of the salaried worker within modern society, which is becoming more and more anonymous and collectivist.

"In fact, is not the essential purpose of unions the practical affirmation that man is the subject, and not the object, of social relations? Is it not to protect the individual against collective irresponsibility of anonymous proprietors? Is it not to represent the person of the worker against those who are inclined to consider him merely a productive agent with a certain price value?

"How, therefore, can it be considered normal that the protection of the personal rights of the worker be more and more in the hands of an anonymous group, working through the agency of immense organizations which are of their very nature monopolies? The worker, thus wronged in the exercise of his personal rights, will surely find especially painful the oppression of his liberty and of his conscience, caught as he is in the wheels of a gigantic social machine."

The foregoing is a realistic analysis of the trend that has brought to America big unionism as an analogy to big corporations. The pope doesn't fail in the same address to deplore the "impersonal" nature of big businesses even though paying tribute to their "marvelous manifestations of the inventive and constructive genius of the human spirit" in co-ordinating and mobilizing the physical forces of men and matter.

Nor does big business, either, escape the criticism that it is aiding in the "depersonalizing" of man.

"In some countries," says the pope, "the modern state is becoming a gigantic administrative machine. It extends its influence over almost every phase of life. It would bring under its administration the entire gamut of political, economic, social, and intellectual life from birth to death.

Man Being Impersonalized

"No wonder, then, if in this impersonal atmosphere, which tends to penetrate and pervade all human life, respect for the common good becomes dormant in the conscience of individuals, and the state loses more and more its primary character of a community of morally responsible citizens.

"Here may be recognized the origin and source of that phenomenon which is submerging modern man under its tide of anguish: his 'depersonalization'. In large measure his identity and name have been taken from him; in many of the more important activities of life he has been reduced to a mere material object of society, while society itself has been transformed into an impersonal system and into a cold organization of force."

These observations touch by implication not only the "welfare state" as the British Socialists have evolved it but also the pattern of new dealism and fair dealism which in the United States for 20 years now has been erroneously presented as a species of "liberalism." Such historic traits of American character as thrift and individual enterprise have been subordinated to the concept of an all-powerful, all-pervasive state which assumes that the government owes every man a reward for citizenship and a high standard of living subsidized by successful and hard-working citizens irrespective of a man's failure to work or to perform efficient service for the wages paid him.

True liberalism recognizes the individual as a responsible member of society with duties and obligations of citizenship as well as civil rights. The emphasis has too long been on abstract rights without taking into account the individual's obligation to society.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—A shocked examination of my bank account (performed with the aid of a jeweler's eye-piece) prompts the following mewing request — which is bound to arouse city-wide disinterest when it reaches Washington:

Instead of reducing taxes by some microscopic margin which will look impressive when lumped but won't mean the difference of an extra beer a week to the individual working stiff who is on salary, why not pull a few million names out of a gold fish bowl each year and let them keep all they've paid that year?

I have a fairly wide range of friends in most of the states and a great many of them have been winding up each December 31 since maybe 1948 behind an eight ball higher than a cat's back. They're hard-working people, too. Some of them are quietly desperate about accepting the fact that all they'll be able to leave the kids is advice, uncertain, and the bucket of bolts, obsolete.

They feel that if they could ever get even again, they'd be all set the rest of their lives. They feel that one year's earnings, as tax-free as the expense account of our great departing leader and the salaries of our sometimes odd collection of Americans in U. N., would do the trick.

I'd limit this windfall to salaried workers and people who have no recourse to tax benefits which accrue to owners of oil wells, depreciable businesses, plants, farms, beneficiaries of capital gains on investment, and the like.

Put Gen Hershey in charge of the new federal agency. YCTIWY (You Can Take It With You.) The general has always been threatening to draw the names of married fathers out of his bowl. As head of YCTIWY he could draw to his heart's contest.

Of course, I realize there may be a few rough edges to knock off YCTIWY. Cooler heads may even prevail on Gen. Ike to lose it, quick. The question of selection, for instance. Some strict parliamentarians might consider it a bit sticky if the law read that the first persons picked would be limited to red-blooded, God-fearing Americans who stand six feet one, are homely, and have the initials B. C. Personally, I could see no wrong in a law limiting the first crop of solvent Americans in a long time to that group. Naturally, I am thinking of my friend Bradshaw Crandell.

The warmest response this reporter has had from a piece in the papers for a long time came from a little pre-Christmas complaint that the greeting card manufacturers were systematically eliminating Christ from Christmas. A lot of people felt quite strongly about this, and sent along cards more traditionally seasonal than the battleship broadsides and views of the Manhattan skyline from the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island which I beefed. Thanks.

The 83rd Congress

The Congress opening today is the 21st to contain 96 senators and 435 representatives. The accession of New Mexico and Arizona in 1912 as the 47th and 48th states, respectively, brought the Senate seats up to 96, and reapportionment after the 1910 census brought the House seats up to 435 in 1913. (The House convening in 1911 had had 391 seats.)

Then Congress decided that 435 House seats were enough. When the 63rd Congress met in 1913, there was one House seat for every 211,430 inhabitants of the 48 states as shown by the 1910 census. When the 83rd Congress meets in 1953, there will be one House seat for every 346,431 inhabitants of the 48 states as shown by the 1950 census.

This will be the 10th Congress to open its first regular session in January, approximately two months after being elected. Before the adoption of the 20th Amendment in 1933, each Congress opened its first regular session in the December of the year following its election—that is, 13 months after it had been elected. (However, many earlier Congresses had been called into special session prior to regular sessions.)

The 83rd Congress will be the second in 22 years with a Republican majority in both branches. No party has ever controlled both branches at the same time with majorities so slim as those of the GOP in the new Congress. (The 1931-33 Congress had a Republican Senate, a Democratic House.)

The speaker of the new House will be Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, who was speaker also in 1947-49. This will be the second time in the 20th Century that the speakership has gone to the same man after an interval—Sam Rayburn (D.) of Texas was speaker in 1940-47 and 1949-53. (Thomas B. Reed, R., Me., was speaker 1889-1891 and 1895-99.)

The retiring vice-president, Alben W. Barkley (D.), is entitled to preside over the new Senate until he goes out of office on January 20. When the new vice president, Richard M. Nixon, is sworn in on January 20 at the age of 40, he will be the second youngest vice president—John C. Breckenridge was 36 when inaugurated in 1857. (Theodore Roosevelt was 42 in 1901.)

The senator of longest service is Walter F. George (D.) of Georgia, 74, who entered the Senate in 1922. The representative of longest service is ex-Speaker Rayburn, 70, who dates back to 1913. Neither of these has served so long in Congress as Carl Hayden (D.) of Arizona, 75, who was a representative from 1912 to 1927, has been in the Senate since 1927.

In the new Senate the political alignment is 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats, one Independent (Morse of Oregon). Sixty of the 96 members are holdovers. Twenty were re-elected, 14 Republicans, six Democrats, so that 80 (83 per cent) of the old members are back again.

There are 16 new senators. Three Republicans replaced Republicans and two Democrats replaced Democrats. Seven Republicans took seats from Democrats, four Democrats took seats from Republicans.

The alignment in the new House is 221 Republicans, 211 Democrats, one Independent (Reams of Ohio, who usually votes with the Republicans), two vacancies because of death (Sabath of Illinois, Cox of Georgia, both Democrats). Of the 433 members of the new House 352 (81 per cent) were also in the 82nd Congress. Fifty Republicans and 31 Democrats are new.

Costly Admonishment

In the scrambling days following June 1950, the Air Force proposed, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff seconded the motion, that a string of five atomic bomber bases be built along the Atlantic coast of North Africa. It was what they call around the Pentagon a "crash" job—get it done, no matter how. The bases were to be completed by mid-1952. The cost was to be a maximum of $300,000,000.

Late last summer Senator Lyndon Johnson's Armed Services Subcommittee had some harsh things to say about these bases. The committee noted that, although more than $225,000,000 had been spent, only two bases were usable, and that there had been widespread waste, corruption and confusion in the construction program.

The committee said it was the fault of the Air Force. The Air Force said it was the fault of the Army Engineers. Lt. Gen. Lewis Pick, chief of Army Engineers, said in testimony before the committee that it wasn't his fault and anyhow things were going along fine. The committee tossed the thing back at the Pentagon and said, in effect, that it wanted action.

Now Army Secretary Frank Pace reveals that he "admonished" General Pick and two colonels for failing down on the job and for not giving the Johnson committee a "clear" picture. Mr. Pace said things had been in a mess and promised the Johnson committee that better administrative liaison would be set up in the future. This "admonishment" is far from the disciplinary action the committee demanded of the secretary.

What is the present status of these air bases? A third base is coming along, but the other two probably will not be ready for another year. It now appears, too, that the total cost will be approximately $800,000,000, or nearly three times the original estimate.

Workers For Brazil

Nine-tenths as large as the United States, but with only one-third of this country's population, Brazil has vast mineral wealth, largely undeveloped, and untold agricultural possibilities. The biggest country in South America requires more man-power and is determined to get it by making immigration attractive. For its great undeveloped areas it is seeking to bring in Dutch, Italian and Portuguese settlers, in addition to more Japanese.

In the four decades ending with 1940, more than 187,000 Japanese entered Brazil. There is on foot a movement to induce 4,000 more Japanese families to migrate. Though The Netherlands has been loath to let considerable numbers of its people emigrate, there is an agreement with Brazil for an unspecified number of third and fourth generation Dutch farming and artizan families to go from Indonesia under particularly favorable terms. But Brazil hopes for 37,000 next year from The Netherlands itself.

What might be called Exhibit A as to opportunities in Brazil is that the first 100 Dutch families in Sao Paulo after four years owned their own homes and had an average income of $6,000.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Why Are You Fat?

Most of us gain weight until some time between our 25th and 30th birthdays. Thereafter the reverse should occur so that by age 60 our weight is approximately 10 per cent less than it was at 30. This would be ideal but in these days of insecurity and plenty most of us are too thin before and too fat after the age of 30.

The majority of individuals become heavier because they eat too much. The glands are blamed frequently but they are responsible in less than 3 per cent. There are other reasons why we grow fat and physicians are learning that treatment is more successful in the long run when the cause is found and eliminated. Many men and women who reach 50 slightly on the portly side acquired the excess poundage gradually. They ate too much over a long period of time and were notoriously weak willed when it came to turning down a fine meal. Those who worked under pressure or tension obtained considerable gratification when meal time rolled around; others were lonely and enjoyed the company of good food. Obese women often gained with each child because while pregnant they "ate for two" but never returned to their former weight after the baby arrived.

The psychological causes for a super-appetite are receiving nation-wide publicity. This aspect makes good reading but is hard to put into practice because these origins are so vague and deep-seated they are difficult to uncover. Such persons are able to lose 20 to 30 pounds on a low caloric diet but improvement seldom lasts and after a few weeks of "stuffing" they are back in the chubby class. Despite these disappointments the individual rarely needs the help of a psychiatrist.

The same cannot be said of the obese adolescent or teen-ager. Such boys and girls frequently are a problem and in need of professional counseling. The physician must delve into their past to discover why they feel insecure. Many suffer in this way because they are convinced they have lived under deprivations. Eating gives them a sense of security because the acquisition of fat brings with it a feeling of power. Furthermore, these youngsters are easily confused and every day is a struggle between a desire to get thin and the wish to remain "fat and powerful." Even temporary loss of weight affords satisfaction until hunger finally takes over and they proceed to regain poundage that had been shed.

Overweight is in reality a statistical term which refers to a deviation from the ideal. It is considered to be 10 per cent above the theoretical normal and as such does not allow for variations in body build. Hence poundage above the usual scale may be normal for some individuals, which may explain why these men and women are healthy even though stout.

CATARACT AND INFECTION

G. V. writes: Can a cataract result from an eye infection?

REPLY

Yes, as a complication of inflammation but in general the cause of cataract is not understood too well.

PAINFUL MANEUVER

Mrs. C. writes: For about a week I find motions like typing my apron in the back quite painful to my right shoulder. Could this be bursitis?

REPLY

Yes, this is one of the classic symptoms. Men with bursitis of the shoulder have difficulty putting the hand in the back pocket of the trousers.

LEG SYMPTOMS

F. L. writes: Why should an old gal of 65 develop weakness and vibration of the legs on walking?

REPLY

Neuritis, poor circulation, and anemia are possibilities. Perhaps the old gal ain't what she used to be.

HEAT STROKE PREVENTION

W. T. writes: How can sunstroke be prevented in a person who is susceptible?

REPLY

The best way is to stay out of the sun or, if exposure is necessary, protect the head and the nape of the neck from the direct rays. In addition, avoid exertion, drink plenty of fluids, wear loose porous clothing, and don't overeat.

FEEDING PROBLEM

Mrs. R. writes: Are twins and triplets usually breastfed?

REPLY

In general, mixed breast and formula feedings are better for twins because not many mothers have enough milk for both. Breast feeding of triplets seldom is feasible, in the first place the mother does not produce enough milk for three; and in the second, she is much too busy with their care to bother with mixed nursing and artificial feeding.

HYPERTENSION

L. P. writes: If a person's blood pressure is more than 100 plus his age, does this mean he has high blood pressure?

REPLY

Not necessarily. This old rule of thumb method of calculation is no longer used. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on high blood pressure.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

McCarthy's Financial Finagling Shocks Colleagues; Pending Oil Cases May Embarrass Ike; Air Force Pilots Lack Experience

WASHINGTON — Word of the amazing report on Senator McCarthy's weird financial dealings has shocked even some of his own Republican colleagues.

It has also aroused some of the more conservative senators, both Republican and Democratic, about the importance of protecting public esteem and respect for the world's greatest deliberative body.

The Senate Elections Committee spent more than a year probing McCarthy's complicated financial setup, his many cash deposits, and his means of concealing speculation by keeping his accounts in the names of his sister-in-law and his administrative assistant, Ray Kiermas. Repeatedly they offered him a chance to appear before the committee and explain any of the amazing data turned up by its investigators. McCarthy declined.

The evidence was so shocking that Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, one of the most respected members of the Senate and chairman of the Rules Committee, himself worked on the Elections Subcommittee to sift and study the McCarthy evidence.

It is Senator Hayden's work on the case which has convinced many conservative Democrats and Republicans that McCarthy should be asked to step aside and not take his seat until the full Senate has carefully considered the evidence.

NOTE — Republican senators who believe McCarthy should be disciplined point out 1, that the Senate Elections Committee has bared facts which the people of Wisconsin did not know about when they re-elected him; 2, that Governor Kohler of Wisconsin can appoint a Republican to take McCarthy's place, thus not upsetting the GOP balance in the Senate; 3, that the Republicans can make a good start carrying out Eisenhower's pledge to clean up corruption no matter which party is affected.

Oil Baby For Ike

Secretary of Defense Lovett is moving heaven and earth to kidnap an embarrassing baby from the doorstep of General Eisenhower before he becomes President.

It's the Justice Department's grand jury probe of the big oil companies for operating international cartels in alleged violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act; also the $67,000,000 civil suit brought by the Justice Department against certain oil companies for overcharging the government.

Lovett, himself a Republican, wants to get rid of both before the Republicans take over, because it will be extremely embarrassing for the Republicans to dismiss the two cases. It happens that the Rockefeller family contributed $85,000 to the Eisenhower campaign; H. R. Cullen, the big Texas oilman, contributed around $50,000, while other oil moguls chipped in heavily. So if Eisenhower should dismiss the two suits, it would look like a payoff.

Lovett has asked the National Security Council to consider the matter on the ground that the two suits will jeopardize the holdings of oil companies in the Near East. He and Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman have signed a report to this effect. Secretary of State Acheson has abstained from signing because his law firm represents the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Meanwhile the oil companies, especially Standard of California and Texas, are hurting their own case by spreading reports that the cases against them were inspired by Communists. They have employed the public relations firm of Hill and Knowlton, which has published a booklet of oil company-inspired editorials castigating the Federal Trade Commission and the government generally as riddled with Communists.

This charge that the U. S. Government is Communist-dominated is being sent to 67 foreign governments and to editors and "molders of public opinion" in 67 foreign countries.

NOTE 1 — The Federal Trade Commissioner who spark-plugged the carefully documented cartel report on the oil companies is Stephen Spingarn, former attorney for the Secret Service, one of the most trusted organizations in the government.

NOTE 2 — What really hurts the American oil position in the Near East is not lawsuits in the United States but British wrangling with Iran. This not only has played into Russian hands, but has helped to alienate the Arab world.

Air Force Crashes

The Air Force, studying the tragic rash of recent air crashes, frankly admits that its pilots do not have the same lengthy experience as commercial pilots.

For instance, the pilot of the Globemaster which crashed recently at Moses Lake, Wash., killing 86 GIs, was only a lieutenant, whereas in civilian aviation a pilot flying this type of plane would have 15 to 20 years experience and a rank equivalent to major or lieutenant colonel.

In fairness, it should be noted that the pilot flying the Globemaster had more than 2,000 hours of flying this type of plane and a good efficiency index. However, the Air Force frankly concedes that in civilian aviation he would have been a co-pilot, not a full-fledged pilot.

Chief reason for this is that the Air Force has too many pilots and too little gasoline. The Air Force also wants to train younger pilots, who despite inexperience make better pilots under fire than older men. That's one reason older pilots are deliberately eased on to desk jobs to make way for younger pilots.

However, if Congress would vote more appropriations to supply gasoline, then both the younger and older pilots would have more flight training.

Washington Pipeline

Senator Nixon has hinted that he, rather than Ike, may be best qualified to give fireside chats and defend the Eisenhower administration on radio and television. Nixon thinks his TV technique is better than Eisenhower's. . . . Most disturbing Korean development is that the Reds are building up their bomber force in Manchuria at an alarming rate. It now includes 75 jet bombers — capable of dropping napalm, the terrible fire bomb, over any part of our lines. Hitherto the Reds have not been able to bomb UN troops effectively. . . . Prime Minister Mossadegh has told the American embassy in Teheran he wants to fly to Washington to talk to General Eisenhower about the Iranian oil crisis. Mossadegh wants to counteract what Churchill tells Eisenhower about the oil wrangle. . . . New strong man General Naguib of Egypt also wants to come see Ike. Looks like they'll have to form a line — about 10 prime ministers are ahead of him. Robert Schuman, one of the most brilliant French Foreign ministers in years, has told friends he expects to be dropped from the next French cabinet. Too many Frenchmen are mad at Schuman for agreeing to German rearmament.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Case Of Gustavo Duran

Senator Pat McCarran and his committee have sought a method for discovering how an American citizen gets a job in the United Nations. His committee brought before them three State Department officials, Adrian S. Fisher, Carlisle H. Humelsine, John D. Hickerson, who should know all about it as that is their business. The committee was particularly interested to know who in the State Department evaluates the personnel material that comes into it from the FBI and other sources. For this these gentlemen had no adequate answer because they said that they had been instructed by the secretary of State not to tell.

On this subject, Senator McCarran issued a statement which included this:

"The evaluations made by the State Department were shown to be so faulty and so defective from a security standpoint as prima facie to justify, if not to require, an interrogation to determine if they were made as a result of subversive influence."

In relation to this, I came across the name of Gustavo Duran, who was born in Barcelona, Spain, on November 14, 1906. He studied at the Conservatory of Madrid 1923-27. He resided in Paris 1929-34. He was reactivated in the Spanish army in 1936. He resided in England 1939-40.

In 1940, he appears at Columbia University as a lecturer in Spanish; he becomes assistant director of the film division of the Latin-American department of the Museum of Modern Art in 1941; he was assistant director of the music division of the Pan American Union, 1941-43. In 1943, he becomes a member of the auxiliary foreign service of the United States and in 1946 was made special assistant to the assistant secretary of State for American Republic Affairs. Then he went to the United Nations.

When did he become a citizen of the United States? The earliest year could be 1944; it was possibly 1945, as it takes an alien at least five years to become a citizen after he has come to this country. He is reported to have said that he was naturalized in 1942, which looks wrong in view of the chronology record here.

George S. Montgomery, Jr., became curious about this and wrote Dean Acheson to inquire. He received a reply from John D. Hickerson, assistant secretary of State, which reads as follows:

Information received from the United States Mission to the United Nations indicates that Gustav (or Gustavo) Duran (or Durand), about whom you inquired in your letter of July 17, 1951, is an American national employed by the secretariat of the United Nations. He is not, therefore, an employe of the United States Government nor a representative of the United States of America to the United Nations.

"I trust that this information may be sufficient for your purpose. Further requests as to the present status of Mr. Duran may be sent to Mr. Georges Palthey, director of the bureau of personnel, United Nations Secretariat, New York 17, New York."

So, he wrote to the aforesaid Mr. Georges Palthey, and received a reply from W. P. Barrett, deputy director, bureau of personnel of the United Nations, as follows:

"With reference to your letter of 6 August 1951, please be advised that Mr. Gustavo Duran is a member of the United Nations Secretariat, employed in the Department of Social Affairs.

"I regret that the other information which you have requested is regarded as confidential, and under the United Nations rules cannot be released."

Then Montgomery went back to Hickerson and received this reply from him:

"The Department has received your letters of August 6th and 14th concerning the employment of Mr. Gustavo Duran by the United Nations.

"Under the provisions of Articles 100 and 101 of the charter of the United Nations, the secretary general is vested with the exclusive responsibility for selection of secretariat employes and member governments are enjoined from influencing his decisions. . ."

This correspondence is opposite to the testimony of Messrs. Fisher, Hickerson and Humelsine of the State Department before the McCarran Committee. They testified that a system did exist by which the State Department notified the United Nations concerning the security characteristics of any American applicant for a position in the United Nations. Trygve Lie told officials of the McCarran Committee and the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate that the United Nations asks for such biographical data.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe among the blessings of the year 1953 will come a new understanding of "liberalism" and a rescue of the word from those who in the recent past have monopolized it while at the same time imposing further and further restriction on the liberty of thought of the individual.

Fifty years ago a "liberal" was a person who didn't want the Constitution narrowly construed so that individual rights would be curtailed. Today a "liberal" is one who wants the Constitution to authorize the federal government to control through the state the life of the individual and even to legalize the "closed shop," which requires a man to surrender his beliefs in order to get or hold a job.

Cites Pope's Statement

One of the most significant pronouncements of a truly "liberal" kind in this connection has been made by Pope Pius XII in his message recently broadcast to the world. It hits directly at what is known as the "closed shop" in American trade unionism. Examining the full text of it, which has just been made avalaible by the National Catholic Welfare Conference here, the passage concerning modern labor unions says:

"Consciences are today afflicted by other burdens . . . Access to employment or places of labor is made to depend on registration in certain parties or in organizations which deal with the distribution of employment. Such discrimination is indicative of an inexact concept of the proper function of labor unions and their proper purpose, which is the protection of the interests of the salaried worker within modern society, which is becoming more and more anonymous and collectivist.

"In fact, is not the essential purpose of unions the practical affirmation that man is the subject, and not the object, of social relations? Is it not to protect the individual against collective irresponsibility of anonymous proprietors? Is it not to represent the person of the worker against those who are inclined to consider him merely a productive agent with a certain price value?

"How, therefore, can it be considered normal that the protection of the personal rights of the worker be more and more in the hands of an anonymous group, working through the agency of immense organizations which are of their very nature monopolies? The worker, thus wronged in the exercise of his personal rights, will surely find especially painful the oppression of his liberty and of his conscience, caught as he is in the wheels of a gigantic social machine."

The foregoing is a realistic analysis of the trend that has brought to America big unionism as an analogy to big corporations. The pope doesn't fail in the same address to deplore the "impersonal" nature of big businesses even though paying tribute to their "marvelous manifestations of the inventive and constructive genius of the human spirit" in co-ordinating and mobilizing the physical forces of men and matter.

Nor does big business, either, escape the criticism that it is aiding in the "depersonalizing" of man.

"In some countries," says the pope, "the modern state is becoming a gigantic administrative machine. It extends its influence over almost every phase of life. It would bring under its administration the entire gamut of political, economic, social, and intellectual life from birth to death.

Man Being Impersonalized

"No wonder, then, if in this impersonal atmosphere, which tends to penetrate and pervade all human life, respect for the common good becomes dormant in the conscience of individuals, and the state loses more and more its primary character of a community of morally responsible citizens.

"Here may be recognized the origin and source of that phenomenon which is submerging modern man under its tide of anguish: his 'depersonalization'. In large measure his identity and name have been taken from him; in many of the more important activities of life he has been reduced to a mere material object of society, while society itself has been transformed into an impersonal system and into a cold organization of force."

These observations touch by implication not only the "welfare state" as the British Socialists have evolved it but also the pattern of new dealism and fair dealism which in the United States for 20 years now has been erroneously presented as a species of "liberalism." Such historic traits of American character as thrift and individual enterprise have been subordinated to the concept of an all-powerful, all-pervasive state which assumes that the government owes every man a reward for citizenship and a high standard of living subsidized by successful and hard-working citizens irrespective of a man's failure to work or to perform efficient service for the wages paid him.

True liberalism recognizes the individual as a responsible member of society with duties and obligations of citizenship as well as civil rights. The emphasis has too long been on abstract rights without taking into account the individual's obligation to society.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—A shocked examination of my bank account (performed with the aid of a jeweler's eye-piece) prompts the following mewing request — which is bound to arouse city-wide disinterest when it reaches Washington:

Instead of reducing taxes by some microscopic margin which will look impressive when lumped but won't mean the difference of an extra beer a week to the individual working stiff who is on salary, why not pull a few million names out of a gold fish bowl each year and let them keep all they've paid that year?

I have a fairly wide range of friends in most of the states and a great many of them have been winding up each December 31 since maybe 1948 behind an eight ball higher than a cat's back. They're hard-working people, too. Some of them are quietly desperate about accepting the fact that all they'll be able to leave the kids is advice, uncertain, and the bucket of bolts, obsolete.

They feel that if they could ever get even again, they'd be all set the rest of their lives. They feel that one year's earnings, as tax-free as the expense account of our great departing leader and the salaries of our sometimes odd collection of Americans in U. N., would do the trick.

I'd limit this windfall to salaried workers and people who have no recourse to tax benefits which accrue to owners of oil wells, depreciable businesses, plants, farms, beneficiaries of capital gains on investment, and the like.

Put Gen Hershey in charge of the new federal agency. YCTIWY (You Can Take It With You.) The general has always been threatening to draw the names of married fathers out of his bowl. As head of YCTIWY he could draw to his heart's contest.

Of course, I realize there may be a few rough edges to knock off YCTIWY. Cooler heads may even prevail on Gen. Ike to lose it, quick. The question of selection, for instance. Some strict parliamentarians might consider it a bit sticky if the law read that the first persons picked would be limited to red-blooded, God-fearing Americans who stand six feet one, are homely, and have the initials B. C. Personally, I could see no wrong in a law limiting the first crop of solvent Americans in a long time to that group. Naturally, I am thinking of my friend Bradshaw Crandell.

The warmest response this reporter has had from a piece in the papers for a long time came from a little pre-Christmas complaint that the greeting card manufacturers were systematically eliminating Christ from Christmas. A lot of people felt quite strongly about this, and sent along cards more traditionally seasonal than the battleship broadsides and views of the Manhattan skyline from the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island which I beefed. Thanks.

Two Wanted Men Arrested During Holiday Visit

Two men who returned to this city during the New Year's holiday were picked up by City Police on warrants held by the sheriff's office.

One was Orland "Chick" Orbello, formerly of this city, who has been sought since the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court, and the other was Frank L. Frantz, of 117 Oak Street.

Orbello faces 11 horse betting indictments placed against him by the April grand jury.

Officials said Orbello, formerly connected with a South End billiard parlor, had not been seen in the city since the April session of court.

Frantz, who authorities said had been living in Detroit for some time, was picked up on a warrant sent here by Baltimore police.

The warrant charges him with alleged embezzlement of $627 from the Montebello Liquor Corporation of Baltimore. The sheriff's office reported Frantz had been employed by the firm at one time.

The prosecuting witness was listed as Alfred S. Bernstein, of the liquor firm.

Frantz was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $250 in the April term of court by Associate Judge Morgan Harris when he was convicted of assaulting a taxi driver. Frantz appealed the sentence and was freed under $1,000 bond, court records show. The results of his appeal were not learned.

Det. Leo E. P. Law and Officer Walter Dennison picked up Orbello yesterday at 1:10 a. m. Det. Law and Officer Glenn Iser took Frantz into custody Thursday at 11:15 p. m.

Take Someone To Church This Week . . . You'll Both Be Richer For It!

TO INSURE PUBLICATION in Saturday's paper, all church notices must be in The Cumberland News office by 11 o'clock each Thursday night.

If only she knew-

She's sad and old beyond her years—this child of the world. And hopeless, too.

A candy cane and a box of nuts from a Christmas tree—when what she wanted more than anything else was to be loved and cared-for, with the promise of a better tomorrow.

If only she had heard, at home and Sunday school, the story of the Christ-child who came to bless little children, she would feel loved.

If only she had heard of the Child who grew into a Man, dependable, strong, and wise, she would feel confident of loving care. If only she had heard how He brings triumph over poverty, pain, and failure, her eyes would mirror hope.

Be sure that the light of faith shines from your child's eyes. Be sure that through Church and home, she—and other little ones—learn all about God's ever-present love.

Police Solve Ransacking Of Wills Mt. Inn

An investigation of the operations of a juvenile gang led police this week to the solution of the thorough ransacking of Will's Mountain Inn nearly three years ago.

Lt. James E. Van and Detective Leo E. P. Law of the Detective Bureau said a 17-year-old boy had admitted that he and two other youths virtually destroyed the interior of the building with no motive other than mischief.

The boy reportedly signed a statement saying he and his two friends went to the inn in March 1950, smashed a valuable display case, a large number of dishes and several bottles of liquor, ran several boxes of toothpicks through a food grinder, pulled down draperies in the main hall, poured several cans of sticky fluid over the hardwood floors, and sailed a number of dishes, pots and pans over nearby Lover's Leap.

They also damaged the radio transmitters of two local taxi companies, which were located in the basement of the Inn.

Police said they obtained the confession while probing the theft of 63 cases of beer from a local brewery, and of several turkeys from a Garrett County farm.

The detectives said the youth admitted taking part in the turkey thefts with seven or eight other boys. The cases are still under investigation.

Police Solve Ransacking Of Wills Mt. Inn

An investigation of the operations of a juvenile gang led police this week to the solution of the thorough ransacking of Will's Mountain Inn nearly three years ago.

Lt. James E. Van and Detective Leo E. P. Law of the Detective Bureau said a 17-year-old boy had admitted that he and two other youths virtually destroyed the interior of the building with no motive other than mischief.

The boy reportedly signed a statement saying he and his two friends went to the inn in March 1950, smashed a valuable display case, a large number of dishes and several bottles of liquor, ran several boxes of toothpicks through a food grinder, pulled down draperies in the main hall, poured several cans of sticky fluid over the hardwood floors, and sailed a number of dishes, pots and pans over nearby Lover's Leap.

They also damaged the radio transmitters of two local taxi companies, which were located in the basement of the Inn.

Police said they obtained the confession while probing the theft of 63 cases of beer from a local brewery, and of several turkeys from a Garrett County farm.

The detectives said the youth admitted taking part in the turkey thefts with seven or eight other boys. The cases are still under investigation.

LaSalle Beats Allegany, 56-51; Fort Hill Cops Overtime Game

Nolan, Harris And Mullaney Get 45 Points

Art Slocum's Club Cracks 4-Game Win Streak Of Campers

Marty Mullaney, Hugh Nolan and Rickey Harris rang up 45 points last night to lead LaSalle High School's Explorers to 56 to 51 decision over Allegany High School last night before a large crowd at Campobello in the opening game of the annual cage series between the city rivals and the 64th battle between the schools since 1921.

The defeat was the first of the season for the high scoring Campers who had averaged 65 points in their four winning starts. LaSalle's triumph was its fourth against two losses. The schools split even last season.

Coach Art Slocum's Explorers held a 14-9 lead at the quarter, held a three-point advantage at halftime, 28-25, and trailed 39-38 when the third stanza ended. Allegany enjoyed a three-point lead early in the final quarter at 45-42 but the Blue and Gold whittled this away and won out in the closing minutes of play.

LaSalle played a bangup defensive game and limited Allegany to 19 field goals. Mullaney controlled the rebounds for the Explorers and outplayed his opponent, Dave Steele, outscoring the Campers center, 16 to 6.

The Explorers collected 21 field goals and meshed 14 of 26 free throws to Allegany's 19 baskets and 13 out of 39 fouls. Dove, LaSalle forward, was the only player ejected on personal fouls.

Hugh Nolan, guard, really was LaSalle's "surprise package." He scored six field goals and 16 points to share high point honors with Mullaney. Harris banged in five fielders and three fouls for 13 markers.

Jim Hoffman carried the brunt of the AHS attack. He scored eight of the Campers' 10 goals and accounted for 19 points.

Allegany's Jayvees defeated LaSalle in the preliminary contest, 52-22. Lineups:

Martin Opines Jake LaMotta Should Retire

Nardico Needs Polish Before Go With Moore

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Danny Nardico, who fights out of Tampa, and Jake Lamotta, who fights out of a crouch, met at Coral Gables, Fla. Wednesday night, and this TV kibitzer has the idea Jake should call the night a day.

He's had it, as they say, and if the eighth-round knockout didn't convince him, the fact that he was knocked off his stout pins for the first time in his long career should.

The human machine just isn't constituted to take the savage beating Lamotta has absorbed in the last couple of years.

We've seen him a knockout victim three times, and each time he was seated woozily on the stool in his corner when the bout was stopped. And each time he had been practically pulverized by punches before the finish.

Wednesday night his pride persisted even after his record for never having been knocked off his feet had been shattered beyond repair. He weathered the round standing in a corner, virtually helpless, sometimes with his right arm stretched along the top rope, his battered, swollen face a picture of sullen, brooding challenge.

Nardico rightfully is enthused over his victory, but his enthusiasm should be tempered with reason. He was not beating the Lamotta. As a light heavyweight, the swarthy, squat Jake is on the pudgy side, and naturally his speed suffers.

There is talk now of a Nardico-Archie Moore bout when Moore takes care of a little unfinished business in the nature of a return bout with Joey Maxim.

Personally, we think the talk is a little premature. Nardico is a sturdy, willing battler with plenty of heart and a stout punch, but certain awkward moves noted Wednesday night indicate he needs considerable polishing. A shrewd, experienced fighter such as Moore, who was able to penetrate the tangled defense of such an able defensive artist as Maxim, would take full advantage of Danny's shortcomings.

Bi-State Installs Officers Tomorrow

The Bi-State Basketball League will install newly elected officers at a meeting Sunday at 2 p. m. in the American Legion Home, Piedmont, W. Va.

Officers for 1953 are Dr. Samuel Kaplovitz, Keyser, president; C. O. Bender, Grantsville, vice president; Jerry Davis, Frostburg, secretary, and Carl "Pete" Dicken, Cumberland, treasurer.

The six clubs that started and finished last season are expected to participate in the 1953 race and if others are interested the league will be increased to eight teams. Other teams interested in obtaining franchises are urged to send representatives to Sunday's meeting.

Maryland To Have 25 Little Leagues

BEL AIR, Md., Jan. 2 (AP) — Organized baseball for Maryland kids is going to be twice as big this year, Ted Schlatzer announced today.

Schlatzer is president of the Maryland Association of Little Leagues.

He said there will be 25 loops in the state next summer. There were 12 last year. Frederick was the 1952 state champion.

Little League baseball, for boys between eight and 12, was started in Maryland in 1949 at Edgewood.

The Baltimore Orioles plan to help promote the Little Leaguers by having them play preliminary games in the stadium regularly. The Orioles also will give a trophy to the champion team and Sen. John Butler will give a trophy to the outstanding player.

Sentinels Bag 58-52 Verdict Over Bulldogs

Weber Ties Up Game At 51-All; McGregor Racks Up 19 Points

Fort Hill's Sentinels won an overtime thriller from the basketeers of Martinsburg (W. Va.) High School last night on the Fort Hill court by the score of 58-52.

Two foul goals by Gene Weber enabled Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's aggregation to knot the score at 51-all as the regulation game ended and in the overtime stanza the Sentinels earned the decision by outpointing the West Virginians seven to one.

Martinsburg was making its first start of the season while Fort Hill's victory was its second against four setbacks. The return contest is set for Martinsburg, January 30.

Fort Hill held the lead at the close of the first three periods, 12-11, 31-25 and 39-34 but the Bulldogs stepped out in front late in the final period before Weber's two free throws sent the battle into an overtime stanza.

In the extra period Bob Andrews' field goal, George McGregor's fielder and foul and Brant's two free throws accounted for the locals' seven points.

George McGregor was Fort Hill's leading scorer with eight baskets and 19 points. Power, Martinsburg center, collected 17 markers to lead his team.

Fort Hill was outscored 20 to 19 in field goals but outpointed the visitors at the foul line, 20-12.

Jimmy Farris of Fort Hill left the game on personal fouls in the final period. Martinsburg lost Hamilton and Netoskie on personals, the latter making his exit in the overtime period.

Martinsburg High's junior varsity quint edged Fort Hill in the prelim, 29-28. Lineups:

Favorites Win All Bowl Games New Year's Day

Tilts Lure 404,139, Leon Hardeman Stars

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—All of the favorites won in the major football bowl games and that was probably the biggest oddity of the New Year's day grid jamboree.

Despite the sweep by the betting choices, operators of parlay betting cards cleaned up. It took the last major game of the day to get them home, however. Southern California was a seven point favorite over Wisconsin, and that was the difference: Southern California 7, Wisconsin 0.

But whether you gave the points or took them, the result was a 7-7 tie, and on parlay cards a tie is a loss for the bettor.

The nine bowl games lured some 404,139 cash customers and about $1,857,475 at the gate. Television and radio money brought in about another $750,000. The Rose Bowl in Pasadena topped them all with a $400,000 gross gate and another $500,000 for radio and television. Figuring in programs, concessions and a few other extras, the Pasadena classic was good for a $1,000,000.

Three major TV chains, NBC Rose and Cotton, ABC Sugar and CBS Orange, networked the big games. When the hundreds of other TV stations are finally built and new networks are formed, the bidding for the major bowl games will hit super figures.

The outstanding player appeared to be Georgia Tech's Leon Hardeman. The 20-year-old Georgian is a hot runner who cuts sharper than a pirate's sword. He must of had some of the pro coaches drooling before their television sets. But the pros are going to have to wait a while. The stubby little guy has another year to go with Georgia Tech.

Scores of the bowl games on New Year's Day were:

Rose Bowl: Southern Cal 7, Wisconsin 0.

Cotton Bowl: Texas 16, Tennessee 0.

Orange Bowl: Alabama 61, Syracuse 0.

Sugar Bowl: Georgia Tech 24, Mississippi 7.

Gator Bowl: Florida 14, Tulsa 13.

Salad Bowl: San Diego NTC 81, Camp Breckenridge 20.

Tangerine Bowl: East Texas 33, Texas Tech 0.

Wheeling Blues And Old Germans To Meet Sunday

Cumberland's Old Germans will play hosts to the Wheeling (W. Va.) Blues Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

It will be the fifth contest of the season for the local pros who have won three and lost one. Wheeling recently dropped a 101-79 decision to the Clarksburg Tiremen.

Wheeling's lineup is expected to include Julius Rivlin, Andy Tonkovich and Gene Britt, who played with the Blues against Cumberland in the All-American Pro League; Ritchie Nau, Cincinnati U.; Chuck Dickman, West Virginia; Bobby Wenzel, of Marshall College and Gene Joseph of Dayton University.

Cumberland's Spas defeated the Blues in their only meeting last year by the score of 76-75.

Mize Is Honored, Wins Ruth Trophy

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—Bulky 40-year-old Johnny Mize, who was warming a large section of the Yankee bench when the 1952 World Series began, has been selected as the outstanding player of the Yankee-Dodger series and winner of the Babe Ruth Memorial Trophy.

His selection was announced by the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association, which has awarded the trophy for the past four years. Mize is the fourth Yankees to win it. Others were Joe Page, 1949; Gerry Coleman, 1950, and Phil Rizzuto, 1951.

Mize, former National Leaguer who never got into a World Series until he joined the Yankees, made his first 1952 series appearance in the third game as a pinch hitter. He belted a homer, then added two more in the next two games and finished the series with a .400 batting average.

LaSalle Beats Allegany, 56-51; Fort Hill Cops Overtime Game

Nolan, Harris And Mullaney Get 45 Points

Art Slocum's Club Cracks 4-Game Win Streak Of Campers

Marty Mullaney, Hugh Nolan and Rickey Harris rang up 45 points last night to lead LaSalle High School's Explorers to 56 to 51 decision over Allegany High School last night before a large crowd at Campobello in the opening game of the annual cage series between the city rivals and the 64th battle between the schools since 1921.

The defeat was the first of the season for the high scoring Campers who had averaged 65 points in their four winning starts. LaSalle's triumph was its fourth against two losses. The schools split even last season.

Coach Art Slocum's Explorers held a 14-9 lead at the quarter, held a three-point advantage at halftime, 28-25, and trailed 39-38 when the third stanza ended. Allegany enjoyed a three-point lead early in the final quarter at 45-42 but the Blue and Gold whittled this away and won out in the closing minutes of play.

LaSalle played a bangup defensive game and limited Allegany to 19 field goals. Mullaney controlled the rebounds for the Explorers and outplayed his opponent, Dave Steele, outscoring the Campers center, 16 to 6.

The Explorers collected 21 field goals and meshed 14 of 26 free throws to Allegany's 19 baskets and 13 out of 39 fouls. Dove, LaSalle forward, was the only player ejected on personal fouls.

Hugh Nolan, guard, really was LaSalle's "surprise package." He scored six field goals and 16 points to share high point honors with Mullaney. Harris banged in five fielders and three fouls for 13 markers.

Jim Hoffman carried the brunt of the AHS attack. He scored eight of the Campers' 10 goals and accounted for 19 points.

Allegany's Jayvees defeated LaSalle in the preliminary contest, 52-22. Lineups:

Martin Opines Jake LaMotta Should Retire

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Danny Nardico, who fights out of Tampa, and Jake Lamotta, who fights out of a crouch, met at Coral Gables, Fla. Wednesday night, and this TV kibitzer has the idea Jake should call the night a day.

He's had it, as they say, and if the eighth-round knockout didn't convince him, the fact that he was knocked off his stout pins for the first time in his long career should.

The human machine just isn't constituted to take the savage beating Lamotta has absorbed in the last couple of years.

We've seen him a knockout victim three times, and each time he was seated woozily on the stool in his corner when the bout was stopped. And each time he had been practically pulverized by punches before the finish.

Wednesday night his pride persisted even after his record for never having been knocked off his feet had been shattered beyond repair. He weathered the round standing in a corner, virtually helpless, sometimes with his right arm stretched along the top rope, his battered, swollen face a picture of sullen, brooding challenge.

Nardico rightfully is enthused over his victory, but his enthusiasm should be tempered with reason. He was not beating the Lamotta. As a light heavyweight, the swarthy, squat Jake is on the pudgy side, and naturally his speed suffers.

There is talk now of a Nardico-Archie Moore bout when Moore takes care of a little unfinished business in the nature of a return bout with Joey Maxim.

Personally, we think the talk is a little premature. Nardico is a sturdy, willing battler with plenty of heart and a stout punch, but certain awkward moves noted Wednesday night indicate he needs considerable polishing. A shrewd, experienced fighter such as Moore, who was able to penetrate the tangled defense of such an able defensive artist as Maxim, would take full advantage of Danny's shortcomings.

Bi-State Installs Officers Tomorrow

Officers for 1953 are Dr. Samuel Kaplovitz, Keyser, president; C. O. Bender, Grantsville, vice president; Jerry Davis, Frostburg, secretary, and Carl "Pete" Dicken, Cumberland, treasurer.

The six clubs that started and finished last season are expected to participate in the 1953 race and if others are interested the league will be increased to eight teams. Other teams interested in obtaining franchises are urged to send representatives to Sunday's meeting.

Maryland To Have 25 Little Leagues

BEL AIR, Md., Jan. 2 (AP) — Organized baseball for Maryland kids is going to be twice as big this year, Ted Schlatzer announced today.

Schlatzer is president of the Maryland Association of Little Leagues.

He said there will be 25 loops in the state next summer. There were 12 last year. Frederick was the 1952 state champion.

Little League baseball, for boys between eight and 12, was started in Maryland in 1949 at Edgewood.

The Baltimore Orioles plan to help promote the Little Leaguers by having them play preliminary games in the stadium regularly. The Orioles also will give a trophy to the champion team and Sen. John Butler will give a trophy to the outstanding player.

Sentinels Bag 58-52 Verdict Over Bulldogs

Weber Ties Up Game At 51-All; McGregor Racks Up 19 Points

Fort Hill's Sentinels won an overtime thriller from the basketeers of Martinsburg (W. Va.) High School last night on the Fort Hill court by the score of 58-52.

Two foul goals by Gene Weber enabled Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's aggregation to knot the score at 51-all as the regulation game ended and in the overtime stanza the Sentinels earned the decision by outpointing the West Virginians seven to one.

Martinsburg was making its first start of the season while Fort Hill's victory was its second against four setbacks. The return contest is set for Martinsburg, January 30.

Fort Hill held the lead at the close of the first three periods, 12-11, 31-25 and 39-34 but the Bulldogs stepped out in front late in the final period before Weber's two free throws sent the battle into an overtime stanza.

In the extra period Bob Andrews' field goal, George McGregor's fielder and foul and Brant's two free throws accounted for the locals' seven points.

George McGregor was Fort Hill's leading scorer with eight baskets and 19 points. Power, Martinsburg center, collected 17 markers to lead his team.

Fort Hill was outscored 20 to 19 in field goals but outpointed the visitors at the foul line, 20-12.

Jimmy Farris of Fort Hill left the game on personal fouls in the final period. Martinsburg lost Hamilton and Netoskie on personals, the latter making his exit in the overtime period.

Martinsburg High's junior varsity quint edged Fort Hill in the prelim, 29-28. Lineups:

Favorites Win All Bowl Games New Year's Day

Tilts Lure 404,139, Leon Hardeman Stars

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—All of the favorites won in the major football bowl games and that was probably the biggest oddity of the New Year's day grid jamboree.

Despite the sweep by the betting choices, operators of parlay betting cards cleaned up. It took the last major game of the day to get them home, however. Southern California was a seven point favorite over Wisconsin, and that was the difference: Southern California 7, Wisconsin 0.

But whether you gave the points or took them, the result was a 7-7 tie, and on parlay cards a tie is a loss for the bettor.

The nine bowl games lured some 404,139 cash customers and about $1,857,475 at the gate. Television and radio money brought in about another $750,000. The Rose Bowl in Pasadena topped them all with a $400,000 gross gate and another $500,000 for radio and television. Figuring in programs, concessions and a few other extras, the Pasadena classic was good for a $1,000,000.

Three major TV chains, NBC Rose and Cotton, ABC Sugar and CBS Orange, networked the big games. When the hundreds of other TV stations are finally built and new networks are formed, the bidding for the major bowl games will hit super figures.

The outstanding player appeared to be Georgia Tech's Leon Hardeman. The 20-year-old Georgian is a hot runner who cuts sharper than a pirate's sword. He must of had some of the pro coaches drooling before their television sets. But the pros are going to have to wait a while. The stubby little guy has another year to go with Georgia Tech.

Scores of the bowl games on New Year's Day were:

Rose Bowl: Southern Cal 7, Wisconsin 0.

Cotton Bowl: Texas 16, Tennessee 0.

Orange Bowl: Alabama 61, Syracuse 0.

Sugar Bowl: Georgia Tech 24, Mississippi 7.

Gator Bowl: Florida 14, Tulsa 13.

Salad Bowl: San Diego NTC 81, Camp Breckenridge 20.

Tangerine Bowl: East Texas 33, Texas Tech 0.

Wheeling Blues And Old Germans To Meet Sunday

Cumberland's Old Germans will play hosts to the Wheeling (W. Va.) Blues Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

It will be the fifth contest of the season for the local pros who have won three and lost one. Wheeling recently dropped a 101-79 decision to the Clarksburg Firemen.

Wheeling's lineup is expected to include Julius Rivlin, Andy Tonkovich and Gene Britt, who played with the Blues against Cumberland in the All-American Pro League; Ritchie Nau, Cincinnati U.; Chuck Dickman, West Virginia; Bobby Wenzel, of Marshall College and Gene Joseph of Dayton University.

Cumberland's Spas defeated the Blues in their only meeting last year by the score of 76-75.

Mize Is Honored, Wins Ruth Trophy

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—Bulky 40-year-old Johnny Mize, who was warming a large section of the Yankee bench when the 1952 World Series began, has been selected as the outstanding player of the Yankee-Dodger series and winner of the Babe Ruth Memorial Trophy.

His selection was announced by the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association, which has awarded the trophy for the past four years. Mize is the fourth Yankees to win it. Others were Joe Page, 1949; Gerry Coleman, 1950, and Phil Rizzuto, 1951.

Mize, former National Leaguer who never got into a World Series until he joined the Yankees, made his first 1952 series appearance in the third game as a pinch hitter. He belted a homer, then added two more in the next two games and finished the series with a .400 batting average.

that it is 50 miles farther than the present route between Washington and Cumberland, that it is far from being the most practical or economical route or that it would be impassable at least on an average of once every five years by reason of flood—would not figure in this free proposal.

"But the Potomac River and the land between it the old canal have land between it and the old canal have values which greatly outweigh by contrast any advantages which a highway would have. Proponents of the parkway speak of scenic values which at most would be river and mountains which to the speeding motorist would offer little in detail.

"This area contains all the flora and fauna ever indigeneous to the eastern part of the United States. In fact, it is a natural biological laboratory in which nests the colorful wood duck and the eastern fox squirrel, which is nearly extinct in other eastern areas.

Potomac Not Appreciated

"It is a sad fact that few people really appreciate the Potomac and its surroundings. For if it were otherwise, in righteous indignation the people of Maryland would demand that the city of Cumberland stop dumping its raw sewage; that the mines cease draining the sulfite wastes into it, making the stream an open sewer during low water as far east as Hancock."

Farther up the line, The Izaak Walton League's Washington County chapter also has gone on record against the parkway. It believes that the $17 million estimate is far too low, that the true expense would be two or three times that amount.

The members refute the claim that a scenic highway is needed to open up access to the river by pointing out that 65 roads lead to the river in Washington County alone.

They also say that the parkway would destroy "the propagation area and natural habitat of hundreds of fish, game and bird life and that removal of natural vegetation from the banks of the river and the canal right-of-way would rob nature of her last stronghold against soil erosion and flood waters."

The chapter, however, does approve of restoring "selected segments" of the canal and building a road along the canal near heavily populated areas.

Hagerstown Opposed

The Hagerstown chamber of commerce is on record against the parkway, dubbing the proposal an "unnecessary extravagance" and suggesting that the money would be better spent on improving existing highways.

Further, the directors agree, restoring the canal's locks, lockhouses and aqueducts would be an expense "out of all proportion to its historic significance, the canal having become obsolete years before it reached Cumberland."

The Washington County Historical Society has not voiced an official opinion on the parkway, but several of its members have expressed hope the Skyline Drive eventually will be extended into the area, following the canal right-of-way a short distance in the Antietam - Harpers Ferry area, then continuing on to Gettysburg and the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Cumberland To Hancock

There also has been some talk in Hagerstown of favoring a parkway along the canal only from Hancock to Cumberland. But County Commissioner Chester Delphey is dead set against the idea. He says that the road would be in danger of floods every spring and winter.

At Cumberland, the western terminal, the city and its civic groups are doing everything they can to back the project. The mayor and city council and the county commissioners have adopted resolutions favoring the parkway.

Allegany County business groups say that something must be done in the way of highway development if the area is to retain its tourist trade and open up more recreational, industrial and commercial resources.

Traffic which once came through Hagerstown, Hancock, Cumberland and Frostburg, they add, now is bypassing Western Maryland by using U. S. Route 50 or the Pennsy-Turnpike.

Cumberland Sportsmen

Cumberland sportsmen, reasoning differently from their brethren in Frederick and Hagerstown, hold that the area actually "destroyed" by construction of the parkway would be so slight compared with the area which the road would make available.

They add that much of the canal now is muck, swampland, and even open sewers, where game and fish will not inhabit. And these would be either cleaned up and preserved or would be used as part of the proposed roadbed.

Delegation Support

The Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly has promised Cumberland city officials to introduce legislation leading to the state's participation in the parkway plan.

The legislators made it clear at a session with city authorities last month that they might be willing to settle for building only the section between Cumberland and Hancock.

One delegate said completion of that section should prove to all doubters the advantages of the parkway and convince them that completion of the entire project would best serve all interests.

New Officials Begin Duties In Mineral County

Rankin And Kemp Take Oath Of Office

KEYSER — Two elective offices had personnel changes Thursday as the result of the general election in November.

The offices of prosecuting attorney and sheriff were changed by the voters, although neither Donald C. Hott prosecuting attorney, nor F. G. Davis, sheriff, were candidates to succeed themselves.

Vernon C. "Pat" Rankin was elected prosecuting attorney and Earl E. Kemp, was named sheriff.

The offices changed from Democratic to Republican.

In West Virginia, a sheriff may not succeed himself, consequently Davis was not a candidate for re-election and Hott was defeated in the primary and was not a candidate for the office at the general election.

that it is 50 miles farther than the present route between Washington and Cumberland, that it is far from being the most practical or economical route or that it would be impassable at least on an average of once every five years by reason of flood—would not figure in this free proposal.

"But the Potomac River and the land between it the old canal have land between it and the old canal have values which greatly outweigh by contrast any advantages which a highway would have. Proponents of the parkway speak of scenic values which at most would be river and mountains which to the speeding motorist would offer little in detail.

"This area contains all the flora and fauna ever indigeneous to the eastern part of the United States. In fact, it is a natural biological laboratory in which nests the colorful wood duck and the eastern fox squirrel, which is nearly extinct in other eastern areas.

Potomac Not Appreciated

"It is a sad fact that few people really appreciate the Potomac and its surroundings. For if it were otherwise, in righteous indignation the people of Maryland would demand that the city of Cumberland stop dumping its raw sewage; that the mines cease draining the sulfite wastes into it, making the stream an open sewer during low water as far east as Hancock."

Farther up the line, The Izaak Walton League's Washington County chapter also has gone on record against the parkway. It believes that the $17 million estimate is far too low, that the true expense would be two or three times that amount.

The members refute the claim that a scenic highway is needed to open up access to the river by pointing out that 65 roads lead to the river in Washington County alone.

They also say that the parkway would destroy "the propagation area and natural habitat of hundreds of fish, game and bird life and that removal of natural vegetation from the banks of the river and the canal right-of-way would rob nature of her last stronghold against soil erosion and flood waters."

The chapter, however, does approve of restoring "selected segments" of the canal and building a road along the canal near heavily populated areas.

Hagerstown Opposed

The Hagerstown chamber of commerce is on record against the parkway, dubbing the proposal an "unnecessary extravagance" and suggesting that the money would be better spent on improving existing highways.

Further, the directors agree, restoring the canal's locks, lockhouses and aqueducts would be an expense "out of all proportion to its historic significance, the canal having become obsolete years before it reached Cumberland."

The Washington County Historical Society has not voiced an official opinion on the parkway, but several of its members have expressed hope the Skyline Drive eventually will be extended into the area, following the canal right-of-way a short distance in the Antietam - Harpers Ferry area, then continuing on to Gettysburg and the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Cumberland To Hancock

There also has been some talk in Hagerstown of favoring a parkway along the canal only from Hancock to Cumberland. But County Commissioner Chester Delphey is dead set against the idea. He says that the road would be in danger of floods every spring and winter.

At Cumberland, the western terminal, the city and its civic groups are doing everything they can to back the project. The mayor and city council and the county commissioners have adopted resolutions favoring the parkway.

Allegany County business groups say that something must be done in the way of highway development if the area is to retain its tourist trade and open up more recreational, industrial and commercial resources.

Traffic which once came through Hagerstown, Hancock, Cumberland and Frostburg, they add, now is bypassing Western Maryland by using U. S. Route 50 or the Pennsy-Turnpike.

Cumberland Sportsmen

Cumberland sportsmen, reasoning differently from their brethren in Frederick and Hagerstown, hold that the area actually "destroyed" by construction of the parkway would be so slight compared with the area which the road would make available.

They add that much of the canal now is muck, swampland, and even open sewers, where game and fish will not inhabit. And these would be either cleaned up and preserved or would be used as part of the proposed roadbed.

Delegation Support

The Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly has promised Cumberland city officials to introduce legislation leading to the state's participation in the parkway plan.

The legislators made it clear at a session with city authorities last month that they might be willing to settle for building only the section between Cumberland and Hancock.

One delegate said completion of that section should prove to all doubters the advantages of the parkway and convince them that completion of the entire project would best serve all interests.

REV. PHILLIP BRENNAN

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va.—Rev. Father Phillip Brennan, 63, rector of St. Vincent's Catholic Church here for the past two years and former pastor of St. Mary Star of the Sea Church at Virginia Beach, Va., died yesterday morning at King's Daughters Hospital, Martinsburg, where he was a patient several days.

A native of Ireland, Father Brennan had returned from his native country December 18 from visiting his two brothers, two sisters and two nephews at Navan In County Smeath. He went to Ireland on a leave of absence given him by the bishop of the diocese of Virginia. His leave was granted because of his health.

Born on Saint Valentine's Day, 1889, near Navan, he was one of eight children all of whom were school teachers except himself. His father and mother were also teachers.

The visit to Ireland this fall was the first in 12 years to his native country and the sixth visit since he came to the United States 40 years ago.

Father Brennan was educated in Ireland and Rome, and following his ordination, May 11, 1913, in St. Peter's Basilica, Rome, by Cardinal Pomtilio, he came to America and became assistant pastor of St. Mary's in Norfolk, Va. From there he went to the Virginia Beach assignment.

When Pope Celestine in 433 entrusted St. Patrick with the task of converting the Irish, it was at Navan that he began his apostolic work. Father Brennan spent much of his time during his recent visit at the shrine there.

The body will remain at the Parks Funeral Home until tomorrow at 10 a. m. when it will be taken to St. Vincent's Church. On Monday at 10 a. m. a Pontifical High Mass will be read by the Most Rev. Joseph H. Hodges, auxiliary to the bishop of Virginia, the Most Rev. Peter L. Ireton.

Father Chester Michael, who has been serving as rector here during Father Brennan's absence, will deliver the sermon. Interment will be in Greenway Cemetery.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Some of the old he-men westerns that are being remade are better than the new type of wide open spaces dramas.

U-I cleaned up with Rex Beach's "World In His Arms." Now James Oliver Curwood's famous "Back to God's Country" is before the cameras at the same studio, with Rock Hudson as the hero. The locale of the story is Alaska.

Rock, who thought he would have to have an operation, has forgotten all about that now to take off on a tour to exploit his latest picture, "The Lawless Breed." He has just one month, and returns here Feb. 2 when the Curwood epic starts rolling, with Howard Christie directing.

Shades of the old days of gangster movies—Paul Muni, George Raft, and Edward G. Robinson are being sought by Jerry Wald for "The Big Heat," a thriller soon to appear as a six part serial in a national magazine.

But this time, instead of bad boys, Muni, Raft and Robinson are being paged to headline this story about the responsibilities of the police to a community, and vice versa. That's a switch, isn't it?

The last I heard of Paul Muni, he was in Europe, living quietly and doing a picture just when the mood moves him. George Raft, too, is abroad. However, methinks both gentlemen can be prevailed upon to return for the Columbia picture.

After a long session in Europe, Jean Dalrymple is in Hollywood—but not for long. She tells me the handsome general she married in Germany last year is now in Korea.

Jean, who has more irons in the fire than a blacksmith, is here on several hot deals, professionally speaking. She wants Franchot Tone to star in her Broadway production of "October Girl," a new play by Charles Robinson.

She's also talking to the Jose Iturbis, with whom she's house-guesting, to come to Spain in the spring to appear in "More than Music."

The American Cinematographers, the official magazine of the Hollywood cinematographers, pays tribute to one of the greatest of them—Virgil E. Miller. Not only does this magazine speak of Virgil's work in "Navajo," but many of the boys of the A.S.C. who were given special showings, say that they believe it will win him an academy award this year.

I know how good Virgil is. He photographed me in the last two TV spots I made for Colgate, and I was certainly pleased—not with myself, but with the way he made me look.

Virgil has been in the Hollywood studios 39 years and he has photographed over 250 feature films, and 55 Fitzpatrick travelogues in color, many of them in foreign countries.

Shapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Today Pier Angeli received a toy poodle from Paris, a belated Christmas gift from Kirk Douglas.

Hildegarde Neff's life story, appearing in European magazines, is titled "I Am Not a Sinner."

For his January 10 show, Bing Crosby takes Bob Hope and Rosemary Clooney with him to Camp Ord. Then the three of them will head for Pebble Beach and Bing's golf tournament. They'll repeat the show for the golfers.

Matty Malneck has been receiving many compliments for the way he leads the five girls in their songs in Jimmy McHugh's revue at Ciro's.

Dr. Kurt Jonas, who took 49 pounds off Blanca Holmes, noted astrologer, and gave her good health, is being mentioned for a UN post.

Van Johnson's daughter, Schuyler, celebrates her fifth birthday January 5 on the train from New York to Hollywood. The young lady, who is the apple of her father's eye, will be given a birthday party.

Papa Yates, of Republic, is proud (and justifiably so) that his new cowboy star, Rex Allen, won the Modern Screen award as the cowboy star of the year.

At the start of the new year, Betty Hutton is happy, happy, happy, not only with Charles O'Curran, but at being the only woman listed as one of the top stars in the British poll of world favorites.

Bob Hope is happy, too. He was number one on the list.

That's all today. Seen you Monday.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

DON'T PASS ANY FORCE

THERE are several types of absolutely forcing actions by your partner which should not be passed under any circumstances—with only two possible exceptions. One of these is when you had previously made a completely misleading psychic bid. The only other one is if you are the undiscovered type of player who would rather lose than win. The necessity of taking some kind of definite action after a force, rather than let the bidding die with your opponents in a not-doubled contract, extends to a forcing pass the same as to a forcing bid.

	♠ 6 3 2 ♥ K 4 ♦ A 10 7 4 2 ♣ 10 5 4
♠ 9 7 5 4 ♥ J 6 3 ♦ K ♣ 9 7 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ J 10 ♥ A 10 9 8 7 2 ♦ Q J 9 8 5 ♣ None
	♠ A K Q 8 ♥ Q 5 ♦ 6 3 ♣ A K Q J 8

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
2 ♠	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

After South's 2-Spades force, North was ready to bid 3-Clubs as a preference for South's longer suit. West's 3-Hearts bid, however, caused him to make a "forcing pass," since he felt he was not in position to decide whether a double of the 3-Hearts looked more profitable than a game for his side—South having shown great strength by the 2-Spades.

If East had passed the 3-Hearts, it would have been incumbent upon South to do one of two things, either double that or bid. When East bid 4-Hearts, however, South decided to pass the buck back to North and compel the latter to choose between a double and a bid. That pass was an absolutely forcing pass, when properly interpreted, and as South meant it. But North did not get the cue. He decided South's pass indicated an overbid on the previous turn, so he passed too and left the opponents in a not doubled contract.

North's best action would have been 5-Clubs, which would have given his side a game to close out the rubber. Lacking a feeling of confidence in such a bid, North then should either have taken a chance with 4-Spades or a double of the 4-Hearts. What he did was the worst possible thing. The 4-Hearts contract was set only two tricks, for a mere 100 points. The double would have given North and South 300 anyway, thrice as many

Your Weekend Question

If you understand the so-called 4-3-2-1 count for hand valuation, can you think of a situation in which one defender can soundly estimate to within one point of the exact strength held by his partner, though the latter did no bidding at all?

To get the best wear from an electric blanket, avoid folding or bunching it while in use. It can be washed in warm soapsuds the same as any other fine wool blanket, but follow the manufacturer's directions for best results.

When you are buying cauliflower or broccoli in the market, choose those that have tight flower clusters.

Folding an omelet toward the pan handle seems to make it come out better.

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Some of the old he-men westerns that are being remade are better than the new type of wide open spaces dramas.

U-I cleaned up with Rex Beach's "World In His Arms." Now James Oliver Curwood's famous "Back to God's Country" is before the cameras at the same studio, with Rock Hudson as the hero. The locale of the story is Alaska.

Rock, who thought he would have to have an operation, has forgotten all about that now to take off on a tour to exploit his latest picture, "The Lawless Breed." He has just one month, and returns here Feb. 2 when the Curwood epic starts rolling, with Howard Christie directing.

Shades of the old days of gangster movies—Paul Muni, George Raft, and Edward G. Robinson are being sought by Jerry Wald for "The Big Heat," a thriller soon to appear as a six part serial in a national magazine.

But this time, instead of bad boys, Muni, Raft and Robinson are being paged to headline this story about the responsibilities of the police to a community, and vice versa. That's a switch, isn't it?

The last I heard of Paul Muni, he was in Europe, living quietly and doing a picture just when the mood moves him. George Raft, too, is abroad. However, methinks both gentlemen can be prevailed upon to return for the Columbia picture.

After a long session in Europe, Jean Dalrymple is in Hollywood—but not for long. She tells me the handsome general she married in Germany last year is now in Korea.

Jean, who has more irons in the fire than a blacksmith, is here on several hot deals, professionally speaking. She wants Franchot Tone to star in her Broadway production of "October Girl," a new play by Charles Robinson.

She's also talking to the Jose Iturbis, with whom she's house-guesting, to come to Spain in the spring to appear in "More than Music."

The American Cinematographers, the official magazine of the Hollywood cinematographers, pays tribute to one of the greatest of them—Virgil E. Miller. Not only does this magazine speak of Virgil's work in "Navajo," but many of the boys of the A.S.C. who were given special showings, say that they believe it will win him an academy award this year.

I know how good Virgil is. He photographed me in the last two TV spots I made for Colgate, and I was certainly pleased—not with myself, but with the way he made me look.

Virgil has been in the Hollywood studios 39 years and he has photographed over 250 feature films, and 55 Fitzpatrick travelogues in color, many of them in foreign countries.

Shapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Today Pier Angeli received a toy poodle from Paris, a belated Christmas gift from Kirk Douglas.

Hildegarde Neff's life story, appearing in European magazines, is titled "I Am Not a Sinner."

For his January 10 show, Bing Crosby takes Bob Hope and Rosemary Clooney with him to Camp Ord. Then the three of them will head for Pebble Beach and Bing's golf tournament. They'll repeat the show for the golfers.

Matty Malneck has been receiving many compliments for the way he leads the five girls in their songs in Jimmy McHugh's revue at Ciro's.

Dr. Kurt Jonas, who took 49 pounds off Blanca Holmes, noted astrologer, and gave her good health, is being mentioned for a UN post.

Van Johnson's daughter, Schuyler, celebrates her fifth birthday January 5 on the train from New York to Hollywood. The young lady, who is the apple of her father's eye, will be given a birthday party.

Papa Yates, of Republic, is proud (and justifiably so) that his new cowboy star, Rex Allen, won the Modern Screen award as the cowboy star of the year.

At the start of the new year, Betty Hutton is happy, happy, happy, not only with Charles O'Curran, but at being the only woman listed as one of the top stars in the British poll of world favorites.

Bob Hope is happy, too. He was number one on the list.

That's all today. Seen you Monday.

DON'T PASS ANY FORCE

THERE are several types of absolutely forcing actions by your partner which should not be passed under any circumstances—with only two possible exceptions. One of these is when you had previously made a completely misleading psychic bid. The only other one is if you are the undiscovered type of player who would rather lose than win. The necessity of taking some kind of definite action after a force, rather than let the bidding die with your opponents in a not-doubled contract, extends to a forcing pass the same as to a forcing bid.

	♠ 6 3 2 ♥ K 4 ♦ A 10 7 4 2 ♣ 10 5 4
♠ 9 7 5 4 ♥ J 6 3 ♦ K ♣ 9 7 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ J 10 ♥ A 10 9 8 7 2 ♦ Q J 9 8 5 ♣ None
	♠ A K Q 8 ♥ Q 5 ♦ 6 3 ♣ A K Q J 8

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
2 ♠	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

After South's 2-Spades force, North was ready to bid 3-Clubs as a preference for South's longer suit. West's 3-Hearts bid, however, caused him to make a "forcing pass," since he felt he was not in position to decide whether a double of the 3-Hearts looked more profitable than a game for his side—South having shown great strength by the 2-Spades.

If East had passed the 3-Hearts, it would have been incumbent upon South to do one of two things, either double that or bid. When East bid 4-Hearts, however, South decided to pass the buck back to North and compel the latter to choose between a double and a bid. That pass was an absolutely forcing pass, when properly interpreted, and as South meant it. But North did not get the cue. He decided South's pass indicated an overbid on the previous turn, so he passed too and left the opponents in a not doubled contract.

North's best action would have been 5-Clubs, which would have given his side a game to close out the rubber. Lacking a feeling of confidence in such a bid, North then should either have taken a chance with 4-Spades or a double of the 4-Hearts. What he did was the worst possible thing. The 4-Hearts contract was set only two tricks, for a mere 100 points. The double would have given North and South 300 anyway, thrice as many

If you understand the so-called 4-3-2-1 count for hand valuation, can you think of a situation in which one defender can soundly estimate to within one point of the exact strength held by his partner, though the latter did no bidding at all?

To get the best wear from an electric blanket, avoid folding or bunching it while in use. It can be washed in warm soapsuds the same as any other fine wool blanket, but follow the manufacturer's directions for best results.

Folding an omelet toward the pan handle seems to make it come out better.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Statistics show that more lasses wear glasses than not. Yes, sixty percent of this country's feminine population do. And the smart ones are rapidly showing how foolish were the old superstitions as to what a woman with glasses can wear—like the taboo against all hats without brims.

Actually, you who wear glasses can pick any hat that fashion offers as long as it emphasizes your best features and de-emphasizes the jut of your specks. And the sooner you rid yourself of any false notions, the smarter and prettier you are sure to look.

To gain that effect, here are the only rules you need consider in selecting a chapeau: Never choose one with a brim or crown that blocks off a view of your forehead. By cutting off a third of your face, such styles as a deep cloche or pulled-down sailor focus attention on your glasses. Never select a style that conceals all your hair, such as a turban. This and similar close-fitting shapes narrow the perspective between the hat and glasses, making the glasses stand out conspicuously. For the same reason, never consider a straight brim that is narrower in front than your glasses. With these exceptions, all millinery styles are yours to choose.

Most important to you is the coordinating of your glasses with your hats. They should complement each other in type—sporty, daytime and dress-up. And every woman who wears glasses at all times, should have a pair with tailored frames for casual use, a distinguished design for daytime occasions and a pair with a sumptious air for after-five wear.

Smart Combinations

How essential it is to own these three types can be readily appreciated by these examples: Visualize aside-tilted cloche in luscious vanilla felt worn with upswept plastic frames the color of bamboo . . . a Tudor page beret in pale green perched above narrow, olive frames that wing along the top like Bergman's eyebrows . . . a profile cap made of rose petals slanted over clear and delicate frames with a rose embedded at the corners.

Smart? Pretty? You bet — and pretty making! Wear your glasses with style and you'll see them for what they are—an attractive asset and accessory!

GLASSES THAT ADORN

Wear your glasses as a smart accessory. Choose rims that are the most interesting shape for your face. This special leaflet is yours for the asking. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Monday: Graceful adieux.

City Fireman Injured While Fighting Blaze

A city fireman was injured in a fire that did considerable damage to the apartment dwelling at 324 Beall Street Thursday afternoon.

The Fire Department reported West Side Company was called to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hogan at 4:36 p. m.

The blaze, firemen said, was in the second floor quarters occupied by the Hogans. They added it started in a pantry and ate its way through the wall to the back porch roof.

By the time firemen arrived, the fire had gained considerable headway.

During the firefighting, Charles Himmler, 46, of 513 Furnace Street, chauffeur with West Side Company, burned his hand and had to be treated at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Deputies Take Three To Md. Institutions

Three men were taken to state institutions yesterday by deputies from the sheriff's office.

They are William "Buck" Darr, of Rawlings, who was given two years in the Maryland House of Correction in Trial Magistrates' Court on several auto law violations, including drunken driving. He had previously been convicted of manslaughter in the death of his wife near their home in Rawlings in 1950.

Ralph Wratchford, who was returned to this county from near Baltimore, was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction on a charge of non-support. He was sentenced in Juvenile Court.

The third man taken away by deputies was scheduled for admission to the Eastern Shore State Hospital for alcoholics.

To Assist Beall

William A. Gresham, executive secretary to Gov. McKeldin, will take a similar position with Senator-elect J. Glenn Beall some time next month.

Gresham, a former Baltimore Sunpapers newsman, has headed the executive department office staff since McKeldin became governor two years ago.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Statistics show that more lasses wear glasses than not. Yes, sixty percent of this country's feminine population do. And the smart ones are rapidly showing how foolish were the old superstitions as to what a woman with glasses can wear—like the taboo against all hats without brims.

Actually, you who wear glasses can pick any hat that fashion offers as long as it emphasizes your best features and de-emphasizes the jut of your specks. And the sooner you rid yourself of any false notions, the smarter and prettier you are sure to look.

To gain that effect, here are the only rules you need consider in selecting a chapeau: Never choose one with a brim or crown that blocks off a view of your forehead. By cutting off a third of your face, such styles as a deep cloche or pulled-down sailor focus attention on your glasses. Never select a style that conceals all your hair, such as a turban. This and similar close-fitting shapes narrow the perspective between the hat and glasses, making the glasses stand out conspicuously. For the same reason, never consider a straight brim that is narrower in front than your glasses. With these exceptions, all millinery styles are yours to choose.

Most important to you is the coordinating of your glasses with your hats. They should complement each other in type—sporty, daytime and dress-up. And every woman who wears glasses at all times, should have a pair with tailored frames for casual use, a distinguished design for daytime occasions and a pair with a sumptious air for after-five wear.

Smart Combinations

How essential it is to own these three types can be readily appreciated by these examples: Visualize aside-tilted cloche in luscious vanilla felt worn with upswept plastic frames the color of bamboo . . . a Tudor page beret in pale green perched above narrow, olive frames that wing along the top like Bergman's eyebrows . . . a profile cap made of rose petals slanted over clear and delicate frames with a rose embedded at the corners.

Smart? Pretty? You bet — and pretty making! Wear your glasses with style and you'll see them for what they are—an attractive asset and accessory!

GLASSES THAT ADORN

Wear your glasses as a smart accessory. Choose rims that are the most interesting shape for your face. This special leaflet is yours for the asking. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Monday: Graceful adieux.

City Fireman Injured While Fighting Blaze

A city fireman was injured in a fire that did considerable damage to the apartment dwelling at 324 Beall Street Thursday afternoon.

The Fire Department reported West Side Company was called to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hogan at 4:36 p. m.

The blaze, firemen said, was in the second floor quarters occupied by the Hogans. They added it started in a pantry and ate its way through the wall to the back porch roof.

By the time firemen arrived, the fire had gained considerable headway.

During the firefighting, Charles Himmler, 46, of 513 Furnace Street, chauffeur with West Side Company, burned his hand and had to be treated at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Deputies Take Three To Md. Institutions

Three men were taken to state institutions yesterday by deputies from the sheriff's office.

They are William "Buck" Darr, of Rawlings, who was given two years in the Maryland House of Correction in Trial Magistrates' Court on several auto law violations, including drunken driving. He had previously been convicted of manslaughter in the death of his wife near their home in Rawlings in 1950.

Ralph Wratchford, who was returned to this county from near Baltimore, was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction on a charge of non-support. He was sentenced in Juvenile Court.

The third man taken away by deputies was scheduled for admission to the Eastern Shore State Hospital for alcoholics.

To Assist Beall

William A. Gresham, executive secretary to Gov. McKeldin, will take a similar position with Senator-elect J. Glenn Beall some time next month.

Gresham, a former Baltimore Sunpapers newsman, has headed the executive department office staff since McKeldin became governor two years ago.

DeSpirito Takes Rest

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP) — The strain of winning 390 horse races last year has tired out Jockey Tony DeSpirito.

He cancelled five scheduled rides at Tropical Park today and called off any assignments for tomorrow.

"I'll be all right after a short rest," said the Lawrence, Mass., rider who cracked the old record of 388 in a year on Dec. 30 and added another winner New Year's Eve.

North, South Contest Today Rated Tossup

Scarbath, Colteryahn Play In Senior Bowl Game At Mobile, Ala.

By HENDRIX CHANDLER

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 2 (AP)—Steve Owen's pass-minded South squad was boosted up to an even choice with Paul Brown's North team today on the eve of the Senior Bowl All-Star game tomorrow.

A forecast of clearing skies and reports the North running attack would be operating with less than full power caused pro scouts to rate the game a tossup. Earlier, the North had been favored by a touchdown.

16 Seniors Are Eligible

Forty-six of 1952's brighter stars close out their collegiate careers in this contest in which the players get paid for their efforts, and thereby turn pro.

In the tossing department, the South has All-America Jack Scarbath of Maryland, one of the heroes of the North-South game at Miami, and Ray Graves, Texas A & M quarterback from the Blue-Gray contest.

Lloyd Colteryahn, one of Scarbath's favorite targets at Maryland, will be at one end for the South, and Jack Lewis, Wake Forest player, will be at the other terminal post.

Maloy, Agganis With North

Chuck Maloy of Holy Cross and Southpaw Harry Agganis of Boston University give the North a pair of fine tossers. They'll be throwing to Bernie Flowers of Purdue and Ernie Stockert of UCLA.

The North running attack will be operating below par because Chuck Hren, Northwestern fullback, has a foot injury, and probably won't get to play.

This left Brown without a regular fullback and forces him to employ hard-running Gene Gedman of Indiana, normally a halfback, at the fullback slot.

Michigan State's Don McAuliffe is being counted on to do a lot of ball carrying for the North. He'll draw help from Gedman and Ohio State's Fred Bruney, who also will be used on defense.

Winners To Get $500

Members of the winning squad will get a guaranteed minimum $500, the losers $400.

A crowd of about 20,000 is expected in the 36,000 capacity Ladd Stadium. The game will be broadcast by CBS. Kickoff is at 1:30 p. m. CST.

Market Opens New Year With New High Advance

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—The stock market opened the new year today with a new high mark for 1952-53.

The advance wasn't anything to get excited about, but it did represent a continuation of the trend that marked the close of the old year.

Steels made the best showing of any major division with demand intense at times. Air lines did better than average and some excellent plus signs were seen in utilities, coppers, rubbers, and railroads.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained only 10 cents and closed at $115.80, a new 1952-53 high and the best level since June 4, 1930.

Volume came to only 1,450,000 shares as compared with 2,050,000 shares traded Wednesday. The daily average for all of last year, incidentally, was 1,297,000 shares.

The steel section of the market turned in its good upside performance against the background of reports by major steel executives that production should continue high through all of this year but the rate should fall off in the last half because of the huge production capacity.

U. S. Steel as the day's second most active issue up 1⅛ at 43½. With 21,700 shares traded. Jones & Laughlin was sixth most active up ¾ at 23½ with 14,900 shares traded. Bethlehem Steel at tenth most active up 1 at 56¼ with 13,200 shares on the tape.

RKO Theaters gained ¼ at 3¾ and was the day's third most active issue. It traded in numerous blocks of 2,000 to 5,000 shares at higher prices.

Alleghany Corp., which was traded in large blocks at times, was fourth most active unchanged at 5¼, and Pan-American World Airways up ½ at 10⅛, was in fifth place.

Higher stocks included Seaboard Railroad up 2 at 114, New York Central ¾ at 22⅞, American Telephone ⅞ at 160½, Anaconda Copper 1⅜ at 43⅞, St. Joseph Lead 1¼ at 42⅝, Goodrich 1¼ at 78¼, Boeing ¾ at 41, and Distillers Corp. ⅜ at 25¾.

Lower stocks included Southern Railway off 1 at 81, Texas Co. ½ at 57¼, Consolidated Natural Gas 1 at 57, McIntyre, Porcupine 1½ at 69½, General Motors ⅜ at 68½, Chrysler 1 at 95, Studebaker ½ at 39⅜, and Caterpillar Tractor 1 at 64¾.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP) — The strain of winning 390 horse races last year has tired out Jockey Tony DeSpirito.

He cancelled five scheduled rides at Tropical Park today and called off any assignments for tomorrow.

"I'll be all right after a short rest," said the Lawrence, Mass., rider who cracked the old record of 388 in a year on Dec. 30 and added another winner New Year's Eve.

North, South Contest Today Rated Tossup

Scarbath, Colteryahn Play In Senior Bowl Game At Mobile, Ala.

By HENDRIX CHANDLER

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 2 (AP)—Steve Owen's pass-minded South squad was boosted up to an even choice with Paul Brown's North team today on the eve of the Senior Bowl All-Star game tomorrow.

A forecast of clearing skies and reports the North running attack would be operating with less than full power caused pro scouts to rate the game a tossup. Earlier, the North had been favored by a touchdown.

16 Seniors Are Eligible

Forty-six of 1952's brighter stars close out their collegiate careers in this contest in which the players get paid for their efforts, and thereby turn pro.

In the tossing department, the South has All-America Jack Scarbath of Maryland, one of the heroes of the North-South game at Miami, and Ray Graves, Texas A & M quarterback from the Blue-Gray contest.

Lloyd Colteryahn, one of Scarbath's favorite targets at Maryland, will be at one end for the South, and Jack Lewis, Wake Forest player, will be at the other terminal post.

Maloy, Agganis With North

Chuck Maloy of Holy Cross and Southpaw Harry Agganis of Boston University give the North a pair of fine tossers. They'll be throwing to Bernie Flowers of Purdue and Ernie Stockert of UCLA.

The North running attack will be operating below par because Chuck Hren, Northwestern fullback, has a foot injury, and probably won't get to play.

This left Brown without a regular fullback and forces him to employ hard-running Gene Gedman of Indiana, normally a halfback, at the fullback slot.

Michigan State's Don McAuliffe is being counted on to do a lot of ball carrying for the North. He'll draw help from Gedman and Ohio State's Fred Bruney, who also will be used on defense.

Winners To Get $500

A crowd of about 20,000 is expected in the 36,000 capacity Ladd Stadium. The game will be broadcast by CBS. Kickoff is at 1:30 p. m. CST.

Market Opens New Year With New High Advance

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—The stock market opened the new year today with a new high mark for 1952-53.

The advance wasn't anything to get excited about, but it did represent a continuation of the trend that marked the close of the old year.

Steels made the best showing of any major division with demand intense at times. Air lines did better than average and some excellent plus signs were seen in utilities, coppers, rubbers, and railroads.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained only 10 cents and closed at $115.80, a new 1952-53 high and the best level since June 4, 1930.

Volume came to only 1,450,000 shares as compared with 2,050,000 shares traded Wednesday. The daily average for all of last year, incidentally, was 1,297,000 shares.

The steel section of the market turned in its good upside performance against the background of reports by major steel executives that production should continue high through all of this year but the rate should fall off in the last half because of the huge production capacity.

U. S. Steel as the day's second most active issue up 1⅛ at 43½. With 21,700 shares traded. Jones & Laughlin was sixth most active up ¾ at 23½ with 14,900 shares traded. Bethlehem Steel at tenth most active up 1 at 56¼ with 13,200 shares on the tape.

RKO Theaters gained ¼ at 3¾ and was the day's third most active issue. It traded in numerous blocks of 2,000 to 5,000 shares at higher prices.

Alleghany Corp., which was traded in large blocks at times, was fourth most active unchanged at 5¼, and Pan-American World Airways up ½ at 10⅛, was in fifth place.

Higher stocks included Seaboard Railroad up 2 at 114, New York Central ¾ at 22⅞, American Telephone ⅞ at 160½, Anaconda Copper 1⅜ at 43⅞, St. Joseph Lead 1¼ at 42⅝, Goodrich 1¼ at 78¼, Boeing ¾ at 41, and Distillers Corp. ⅜ at 25¾.

Otto Graham's Son Dies In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2 (AP) — Stephen Graham, six-week-old son of Cleveland Browns' Quarterback Otto Graham, died today a few hours before his parents arrived from the West Coast.

The child had been ill for several days with a bad cold. A physician said the immediate cause of death was asphyxiation, caused by a congestion of fluids.

Graham, 31, was scheduled to play for the American Conference All-Stars against the National Conference in the National League's pro football bowl Jan. 10.

Doug McWeeny Dies

McWeeny played with the Chicago White Sox, Brooklyn Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds during his major league career extending from 1920 to 1931.

Only One Bad Mishap Mars Area Holiday

Westernport Couple Hurt In Road Crash

A Westernport couple was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where the two were admitted Thursday morning following an auto-wrecker highway mishap on Route 135 near McCoole.

Maurice Elwood Schell, 30, of Main Street Eextended, was reported in "good" condition while his wife, Dixie E. Schell, 27, remained in "fair" condition.

Rams Wrecker

According to Trooper First Class Milton J. Hart, a car driven by the husband traveling southeast towards McCoole at a high rate of speed crashed into the rear of a heavily constructed wrecker.

The wrecker was driven by Harry Reeves Jr., of 210 Vine Street, Westernport, who was not hurt in the mishap. Reeves was enroute to McCoole to pull a car from a ditch where it had slid earlier.

However, several other minor mishaps were reported for the New Year. Edward Cheuvrant, 83, of Allegany Inn, was reported in "good" condition last night in Sacred Heart Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday at 10 p. m. after being struck by an auto driven by Robert Bloss of Prospect Square.

Hospital attaches said Cheuvrant, who was taken to the hospital by Bloss, suffered minor injuries.

Other Mishaps

Two persons were slightly injured Thursday at 1:30 a. m. when two cars collided at the intersection of Baltimore and Mechanic streets.

Police said a car driven by Donald W. Moore, 20, of RFD 2, Baltimore Pike, pulled out of North Mechanic Street in front of a car being driven west on Baltimore Street by Melvin H. Smith, 22, of 912 Yale Street.

Moore and Rose Mary Smith, 18, of Route 2, Phoenixville, Pa., were treated at local hospitals and were released. Officer James H. Snyder filed reckless driving charges against both drivers.

J. Homer VanSant, 812 Elwood Lane, timekeeper for the Western Maryland Railway, was reported in "good" condition last night at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday with head and jaw injuries suffered in a fall while working.

Man Chokes Self In Fork Of Tree At Local Park

Percy Eugene Thompson, of Star Route, Everett, Pa., was found with his neck wedged into the crotch of the tree by a 17-year-old boy who ran against his body while tracking rabbits in the snow.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Thompson's death was suicide by strangulation.

Lt. James E. Van, head of the Detective Bureau, said Thomas Buser, 17, of 540 Eastern Avenue, and Kenneth Wilmont, 16, of 523 Ford Avenue, were on their way home at 3:30 a. m. after putting in a night's work as ushers at a local theater.

Youths Find Body

Using a flashlight to track rabbits in the snow, they stumbled upon the body, and notified Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, who called police.

Police said Thompson's neck was wedged into the fork of a small tree about 4½ feet from the ground. His knees were a few inches from the ground. He had $28 and a gold watch in his pockets.

At 9 p. m. New Year's Eve, Dr. Deming related, Thompson left a cousin's house, informed her he would be back the following day. He placed the death as 2 a. m. Thursday about one hour and a half before the body was discovered.

Funeral Set Today

Dr. Deming said Thompson had worked at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here up until two years ago when he underwent an operation for simple mastoid.

In ill health, he had often threatened suicide, the medical examiner said his relatives pointed out.

The victim was born September 24, 1894, a son of William and Margaret (Cooper) Thompson. He was single and roomed at various places, having only Star Route, Everett, address as a permanent one.

Thompson is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Beck of Everett, Pa., and Mrs. Inez Beck, of Star Route, Everett.

The body is at the Conner Funeral Home, Everett, where services will be conducted today at 2 p. m. by Rev. Walter W. Twigg of Flintstone. Interment will be in Clearville Union Cemetery.

GOP Delegates Caucus In Annapolis Tuesday

Minority Leaders Will Be Appointed

Members of the Allegany County Delegation will leave here Tuesday for Annapolis to attend a Republican caucus planned that night in preparation for the opening of the General Assembly on January 7.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the delegation, said the events Tuesday will get underway at Carvel Hall at 7 p. m. at a dinner given by the Republican State Central Committee for all Republican members of the Legislature.

Maryland GOP Congressmen have been invited to sit in on the meetings.

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin is expected to give the principal address and to outline Republican strategy for the 90-day session of the Assembly.

Following the dinner, Chairman See said, Republican members of the House and Senate will go into separate caucuses to elect minority leaders.

Informed sources said Arthur H. Green, Garrett County, who was House minority leader in the 1951 session, and J. Douglas Bradshaw, Montgomery County, are expected to be candidates for the post of House minority leader.

Senator Robert B. Kimble, Allegany County, present Senate minority leader, is expected to be a candidate for the same post in the Senate, the Delegation reported.

Members of the county delegation, Delegate See reported, expect the coming long session of the Assembly to be a busy one, especially since they will have a heavy slate of county legislation to act upon.

Scores of bills have been proposed to the legislators by groups in Allegany County, but no actual bills have been presented to the Delegation.

See stressed that although the Delegation has informally indicated support of several measures, it has made no commitments and has not held a formal meeting on the legislative log.

He said all indications point to a "hectic" session, since a number of controversial bills, both local and statewide, are due to be dropped into the legislative hoppers.

The legislators again stressed that all local bills should be introduced early in the session if they are to have a good chance for passage.

Allegany County will be represented by Senator Kimble and Delegates Noel Speir Cook, Frostburg, Fred B. Driscoll, Cumberland; Estel C. Kelley, Cumberland; Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage; Charles M. See, Cumberland, and Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport.

Four Die In Md. Holiday Accidents

[By The Associated Press]

The deaths of a Frederick County youth and a soldier stationed at Edgewood, Md., raised to four the number of traffic fatalities in Maryland in the long New Year's holiday period.

John Calvin McElfresh, 18, of near Frederick, died of a fractured skull in Frederick Memorial Hospital Friday after the car he was driving crashed into a tree. McElfresh was the only person in the car and since there were no witnesses police were unable to say what caused the accident. The car was demolished.

Pfc. Thomas F. Branschreiber, 23, of Milwaukee, was killed when his car crashed into a bridge abutment on State Route 7 in Harford County near Abingdon Thursday night. He was stationed at the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood.

The tabulation of holiday deaths started at 6 p. m. New Year's Eve and will continue until 11:59 Sunday night. Fifteen persons were killed accidentally in the four-day Christmas holiday period in Maryland.

Take Personnel Course

Two local B. and O. officials will attend a human relations course planned in Annapolis next week by the personnel department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

They are E. H. Martin, general foreman of the Reclamation plant, and G. A. McGinn, chief clerk of the division.

Police Continue To Sift Clues In Meister Case

Their investigation practically stalemated, state and county authorities last night sifted and rechecked a welter of rumors and tips on the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Odessa Frances Meister from her home here two weeks ago today.

Yesterday morning, police issued an appeal for information from anyone who may know anything about what may have happened to Mrs. Meister.

All available clues, they said, have been exhausted, but some rumors still have not been thoroughly rechecked because of the difficulty of evaluating information which already is on hand.

Only this much is known for certain:

Mrs. Meister left her home at 104 Columbia Street at about 2 p. m. on Saturday, December 20, to catch her bus to the Celanese plant at Amcelle, where she was to report for work on the 3-to-11 p. m. shift.

Seen On Bus

Two people told police they were certain that they remembered having seen Mrs. Meister board the bus. They got off at the main gate, but paid no attention whether Mrs. Meister left the bus at that point or rode on to the C. A. gate several hundred yards further down the road.

Mrs. Meister, who was wearing a blue dress and red coat, disappeared somewhere between the bus and her section at the plant, where a paycheck was awaiting her. She never reported for work.

On December 26, a small boy found Mrs. Meister's red shoulder-type pocketbook in Bowman's Addition at the other end of town. A handkerchief and some bobby pins which may have been hers also were found.

Whether Mrs. Meister was in Bowman's Addition or whether someone else dropped her pocketbook there is not known. The rest, say police, must be supposition until more concrete clues are found.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator, and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya issued their appeal for information yesterday after the latest lead in the case fizzled.

To Search Locker

That was the discovery by two small boys of torn clothing by a lake at St. Charles College near Catonsville. The clothing was found December 26, the same day Mrs. Meister's pocketbook was found here.

The clothing was relayed here by Baltimore County police. Baker and Lilya showed it to Mrs. Meister's husband, Thomas, to her daughter, Nancy, 11 and to two of her sisters. All said it was not Mrs. Meister's.

Last night, Baker termed "absurd" the theory that Mrs. Meister may have been the victim of a sex criminal in this area. It had been reported that an anonymous woman told police Mrs. Meister had known a man who once was convicted for a sex crime.

As it turned out, Baker said, the man in question had once been convicted of simple assault. He added that the report had been thoroughly checked and had been written off as being too far-fetched.

Baker also said Mrs. Meister's locker at the Celanese plant will be searched on Monday.

Area Past Masters Plan Annual Meeting

The Past Masters Association of Western Maryland will hold its annual meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple here.

A dinner will be held at 6:15 p. m., preceding the meeting.

Four Bakeries Drop Deliveries On Wednesdays

Five-Day Week Starts Sunday

Four Allegany County bakeries have entered into an agreement with Local Union No. 453, Teamsters AFL, whereby Wednesday deliveries by the driver-salesmen will be eliminated beginning next week.

Under this new agreement, the driver-salesmen will work a five-day week with Wednesdays and Sundays as regular holidays.

Wednesday deliveries will be made only during holiday weeks. During those weeks, deliveries will be made on Wednesday instead of on the holiday. In a form letter to all food merchants in the area, the four bakeries explain that only those holidays which are recognized by Local 453 will be considered as making a holiday week.

"We recognize that some problems and inconveniences for all concerned may arise from this change," the form letter said. "It is our sincere hope that you will help us to work out these problems and eliminate any inconveniences.

"One of these problems will be that of placing the proper amount of bakery products in your place of business on Tuesdays so that you will not run short on Wednesday. Please help our salesmen in this matter so that sales at the plants on Wednesdays will be not be necessary."

The letter notes that Article 3, Paragraph 4a-2 of the contract with Local 453, Teamsters Union, reads:

"No Sunday, holiday or Wednesday deliveries by anyone in any manner, and furthermore no sales in any manner shall be made from any bakery on Sundays, Wednesdays or holidays."

Similar agreements providing for a five-day work week have been made by other bakeries in the area in the past year. The Wednesday delivery elimination will have no major effect for many independent grocers who are open only half day on Wednesdays. Those who are open all day Wednesdays will have to place much larger Tuesday orders than in the past.

Bakeries involved in the new agreement are Community Baking Company, Inc., McIntyre's Bakery, Inc., Ort Brothers Bakery, Inc., and Schmidt Baking Company, Inc.

Myers Gives Tawes Big Pat On Back

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP) — Del. August M. Myers (D-Balto 6th) today called State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes the Democratic party's best potential leader in Maryland — both now "and two years hence."

Myers earlier this week withdrew from a coalition of city legislators backing Del. Chester W. Tawney (D-Balto 3d) as a candidate for speaker of the house, a position now occupied by Del. John C. Luber (D-Balto 5th).

He said when he joined the move to oust Luber that he did not know it was inspired by James H. Pollack, Fourth District leader.

In a letter to Pollack announcing his withdrawal, Myers said there was "nothing personal" in the move.

His endorsement of Tawes, taken to mean he would support the Eastern Shore leader as the party's candidate for governor in 1954, was an attempt to "clarify" his political position, Myers said.

"It has appeared to me for a long time that the Democratic party is splitting at the seams instead of striving for party harmony," Myers said today.

"In my opinion the Democratic party is blessed with a strong potential leader in the person of J. Millard Tawes, if only Mr. Tawes would step forward and accept this leadership," Myers said.

He described the state comptroller as "the only man who has the background and experience to gain the confidence of the electorate and lead the Democratic party to victory two years hence."

Myers said he left the coalition against Luber because he realized it did not offer "a real solution to the problems."

Four Recent Thefts Solved By City Police

Police last night said they had cleared at least four recent thefts and acts of vandalism with the arrest of a 16-year-old East Side boy.

Detective Leo E. P. Law said he picked up the youth last night for questioning in the theft of $19 from Street's Repair Shop on Willowbrook Road on Thursday.

He said the boy admitted complicity in that theft and in others dating back to September.

Law quoted the youth as saying he broke into the Cumberland Country Club last month, stole golf clubs, golf bags and tees, a camera and soft drinks.

The boy reportedly admitted breaking into a parked car on Harding Avenue and stealing a camera, tools, papers and cigarets. Law said the boy also tore doors off another car on Yale Street recently.

He reportedly admitted turning in several false fire alarms in the last few weeks, and said he had been planning to commit another burglary before he was arrested last night.

Law lodged the boy in City Jail pending further investigation.

Town Creek Valley Gets Dial Service

Dial telephones have been placed in operation in the Town Creek Valley.

At present, there are about 17 customers on the line, which was a project of the Town Creek Valley Club.

Washington-Cumberland Favor Proposed Parkway; Frederick-Hagerstown Object

Official Sanction Given Federally Financed Project By Department Of Interior And State Roads Commission

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two articles on the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio canal parkway. It deals with the pros and cons of the project, as reflected by official groups and by the communities involved.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP) — Sentiment for and against the proposed parkway along the old Chesapeake and Ohio canal depends almost entirely on where you live along its scenic route.

Washington and Cumberland, at either end, are strongly in favor of the project. Frederick and Hagerstown, in between, are generally hostile to the plan to build the two-lane highway.

The Interior Department has recommended to Congress that the Federal government build the 168-mile roadway, reporting that the Public Roads Administration figured after a 1949 survey that the cost would run $17,107,000.

The government owns the C. & O. canal right-of-way, which amounts to more than 5,000 acres. It stipulated that Maryland would have to buy the additional land needed — 11,900 acres — for its part of the bargain.

Unofficial estimates of the cost of this land run from $1.5 million to $2 million.

One state agency appears to be viewing the overall project with a skeptical eye but has indicated it would cooperate if it wouldn't have to put much money in it. Another state group opposes it.

Last month Chairman Russell McCain of the State Roads Commission wrote I. Alvin Pasarew of the State Planning Commission and acting chairman of the Joint Committee on the C&O Canal Parkway:

"While this new parkway..is not as important as other roads in the overall highway planning of Maryland, if it could be secured by the state furnishing the right-of-way and the Federal government defraying all construction costs it would—in the opinion of the State Roads Commission—be a worthwhile investment."

On the other hand, the Board of Natural Resources believes the parkway would inflict serious harm to the wildlife habitat in the area and opposes the move.

Skeptical On Cost

Several groups and individuals in the state are openly skeptical of the cost estimate, figuring it would cost many millions more than the $17 million estimated by the Public Roads Administration. Now let's take a look at the local sentiment, going up the river from Washington to Cumberland:

Harry T. Thompson, associate superintendent of the National Capital Parks in Washington, sees the parkway as a "gilt-edged proposition" where Maryland would be getting a highway up the Potomac for only 10 cents on the dollar.

Public Roads Commissioner Thomas H. MacDonald also says he is "very much in favor" of the proposal because it would "offer an arterial route for passenger cars leading to the northwest out of the district and help cut down congested travel."

Frederick Opposition

Up the line a bit to Frederick, no official position has been taken by city officials or the chamber of commerce, but opposition is evident from both quarters. Both see it as a development that would hurt Frederick, since it would divert traffic away from the community.

Emmert R. Bowlus, president of the Frederick County Fish and Game Protective Association, put it this way:

"Members of our organization see no necessity for the proposed canal parkway. If the Federal government has so many millions to waste on such a project, it might be better if it were returned to the public in the form of a tax reduction. A few millions here and a few millions there could make a difference.

"Our organization is prepared to fight the parkway proposal to a finish."

Sportsmen Object

Dr. W. A. R. Bell of near Lewistown, president of the Frederick chapter of the Izaak Walton League and a recognized soil conservationist, said:

"It did not surprise me to learn that the State Roads Commission favors the building of an express highway on the old C&O canal right-of-way, for it would add 185 miles of road to the Maryland highway system almost gratis.

"The fact that it is not needed—

State Death Rate In 1952 Shows Slight Increase But Usual Trend Is Reversed

Baltimore City Harder Hit Than Counties

During 1952, mortality in Maryland increased slightly and this increase applied to most causes of death except tuberculosis and homicide according to a report to Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of health, submitted by Dr. A. W, Hedrich, chief, Division of Vital Records and Statistics of the Maryland State Department of Health.

The general death rate increased by about 3.6 per cent and represented a reversal of the trend during recent years. The increase was somewhat greater for Baltimore City than for the counties of Maryland. Percentagewise, the major increases in the City were for non-vehicle accident mortality, syphilis, and diabetes whereas in the counties, the major increases were for influenza pneumonia and cerebral hemorrhage.

Mortality rates were also higher for infant paralysis and meningococcus meningitis. The rise of the latter disease is significant as indications are that it may continue into 1953, for this disease tends to increase particularly during periods of war and heavy population movement.

Mortality Increases

The report shows the mortality rates during the last two years and the percentage change for specific diseases in the State as a whole. For each of the five diseases affecting most heavily the years of maturity, the mortality rose somewhat. The heaviest increases was for cerebral hemorrhage, a disease associated with high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. For this disease the mortality rose by 11.5 per cent and this increase was much heavier in the counties of Maryland than in the city. Another striking contrast is that the diabetes rate last year apparently rose in Baltimore City by about 14 per cent against an actual decline in the counties. The cancer mortality also rose moderately and part of this rise must be attributed to the steady aging of the population and probably somewhat to better diagnosis particularly among the rural population.

None of the acute communicable diseases showed heavy epidemics but in the early part of the year there was in the counties of Maryland a fairly sharp increase in mortality from influenza and pneumonia over the preceding year; although in relation to the average of recent years the mortality was not high. Baltimore City showed no such increase.

Poliomyelitis deaths increased from 5 to 13 during the year ending November 30 and meningococcus meningitis deaths went from 16 to 29.

A study from this Department published in May, 1952, indicated that the meningococcus meningitis mortality has slowly been rising during recent years over most of the United States.

Since this disease is exceptional in that it frequently takes 3 to 5 years to reach its peak, current indications are that the rise will last through the spring of 1953 and possibly longer in some areas. The number of reported cases of the disease is not large but due to its rapid course, the fatality among those attacked is high.

For both poliomyelitis and meningococcus meningitis, the increases were much heavier among white than among colored.

Alarming Increase

The rise of approximately 18.5 per cent in the syphilis mortality rate is somewhat surprising as the mortality had been declining rather steadily during recent years.

The increase was about twice as heavy in the city as in the counties and it is further noteworthy that this increase in syphilis mortality occurred almost exclusively among whites where it was nearly 50 per cent, against a much smaller rise for the colored.

Reports of new cases of syphilis (primary and secondary only) in the State numbered only 194 during the year representing an actual drop of 39 per cent from the figure of 317 reports for the preceding year. Although more detailed study is needed in order to interpret the rise in syphilis mortality, present indications are that the deaths occurred mainly among relatively old cases and that the prevalence of syphilis in the population is not actually increasing.

Tuberculosis Declined

Tuberculosis was one of the few diseases for which the mortality declined in 1952; the drop in the city was about 10 per cent against 6 per cent decline in the counties. The percentage decline was more than twice as great for whites as for colored and was heaviest among Baltimore City whites.

Admissions to tuberculosis sanatoria, however, remain high, particularly since many remain for treatment who formerly would have died.

Suicide Declines

During the year the suicide mortality dropped by 10.9 per cent and all of this decline occurred in Baltimore City where the drop in rate was actually 32.7 per cent against a rise of 3.8 per cent in the counties.

On the other hand, the homicide rate increased 5 per cent during the year and practically all of this increase occurred in the counties of Maryland.

Accidents of all types remain a major mortality problem. Non-motor vehicle accident mortality increased 6.8 per cent against an increase of 2.3 per cent for the motor vehicle type.

The increase in motor vehicle deaths occurred solely in the counties, the city rate actually declining 6 per cent; but the increase in mortality from "other accidents" for some strange reason occurred solely in Baltimore City.

Infant and Maternal Rate

There was a very small increase (1.7 per cent) in the infant mortality rate which was limited to the counties of Maryland.

There was also an increase in the maternal deaths, the number rising from 28 to 40. This increase occurred both among white and colored.

Marriages and Births

A total of 46,612 marriages was reported during the year, a decrease of about 5 per cent below the 1951 figure. Both of these figures are heavily loaded with non-residents coming to Maryland to be married. Like the marriages, the 4,861 divorces granted in 1952 showed a small decline (about 1.5 per cent) from the number reported for the preceding year.

There were 57,359 births in the State during the year, an increase of 3.4 per cent over last year. The birth rate per thousand population, rose in the State from 23.1 to 23.4. There was a rise of about 2.5 per cent in the white rate and a 2 per cent decline in the colored birth rate. 97.0 per cent of the births were attended by physicians in 1952.

First Women Report Monday For Jury Duty

Grand Jurors Will Begin Investigations

For the first time in Allegany County's history, two women will report for grand jury duty at 10 a. m. Monday when the January term of Circuit Court gets underway.

Women on the grand jury are Clara W. Walters of Corriganville and Margaret Hepburn of Lonaconing.

Voters Approve

William W. Sluss, Jr., a Frostburg grocer, is foreman of the grand jury.

Other grand jurors are Francis R. Torrington, Francis W. Sweene, Harold E. Nixon, Otha Simms, Frederick C. Neus, William W. Cadwallader, Holmes H. Cessna, Thomas A. Hewitt, Frank C. Trozzo and Emory L. White, all of Cumberland; William F. Sullivan, Edgar L. Harvey, John L. Durst and Lloyd L. Stevens, all of Frostburg; William B. McGee, Westernport; Walter Duncan, Shaft; Carson J. Thomas, Vale Summit; William O. Jones, Lonaconing; Ernest E. DeVore, Ellerslie, and Nathaniel Dunn, Midland.

Light Docket Seen

Some 29 witnesses, principally law enforcement officers from communities around the county, have been summoned to testify before the grand jury Monday after the charge is given. Only one witness for Tuesday had been summoned up to last night.

The 25 petit jurors will not have to report until 9:15 a. m. Monday, January 19. Criminal trials probably will be heard that week.

Blood Bank Will Visit Cumberland Monday, Tuesday

Some 120 more donors are needed for the Johnstown Mobile Blood Unit to reach its quota on its two-day visit to Cumberland Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. W. Lee Witherup, executive secretary of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter, said last night.

About 120 persons are scheduled to give blood at the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, between noon and 6 p. m. Monday. Between 50 and 80 more are scheduled for the same hours Tuesday. Mrs. Witherup said that the blood bank must get 120 productive pints of blood each day that the unit is here. Considering concellations, rejections and those who are unable to give a full pint of blood, about 150 donors must be scheduled each day to get the 120 pint quota.

The Johnstown unit also is planning a visit to Lonaconing in February and Frostburg in March.

Weather

Yesterday's cloudy weather was mixed with lingering fog all day long and was reported becoming heavier last night. Temperatures at the same time remained below freezing in the Cumberland area. Maryland State Police reported snow began falling late last night east and west of the Queen City, and said traveling may get hazardous later this morning.. Light snow fell in the city. High temperature yesterday was 31, according to Constitution Park weather station; low was 25 and at 7 p. m., mercury stood at 30 degrees. Forecast for today is windy turning gradually colder with a few snow flurries.

FAREWELL PARTY — Fellow employes at Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America are shown presenting several gifts to Randolph J. Jewell, who is leaving in a few weeks to accept a position in the Customer Service Department of Celanese in New York City. Some 30 persons attended the dinner party last night at Ali Ghan Country Club. Jewell, who has been connected here with Celanese since 1934, is supervisor in charge of customer warping. Only One Bad Mishap Mars Area Holiday

Westernport Couple Hurt In Road Crash

A Westernport couple was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where the two were admitted Thursday morning following an auto-wrecker highway mishap on Route 135 near McCoole.

Maurice Elwood Schell, 30, of Main Street Eextended, was reported in "good" condition while his wife, Dixie E. Schell, 27, remained in "fair" condition.

Rams Wrecker

According to Trooper First Class Milton J. Hart, a car driven by the husband traveling southeast towards McCoole at a high rate of speed crashed into the rear of a heavily constructed wrecker.

The wrecker was driven by Harry Reeves Jr., of 210 Vine Street, Westernport, who was not hurt in the mishap. Reeves was enroute to McCoole to pull a car from a ditch where it had slid earlier.

Mrs. Schell, a passenger in her husband's car, suffered a fractured skull, brain concussion, broken nose and a broken right wrist. Her husband sustained a brain concussion and deep lacerations of the face and forehead.

The accident was the only serious traffic accident reported during the New Year holiday in the area.

However, several other minor mishaps were reported for the New Year. Edward Cheuvrant, 83, of Allegany Inn, was reported in "good" condition last night in Sacred Heart Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday at 10 p. m. after being struck by an auto driven by Robert Bloss of Prospect Square.

Hospital attaches said Cheuvrant, who was taken to the hospital by Bloss, suffered minor injuries.

Other Mishaps

Two persons were slightly injured Thursday at 1:30 a. m. when two cars collided at the intersection of Baltimore and Mechanic streets.

Police said a car driven by Donald W. Moore, 20, of RFD 2, Baltimore Pike, pulled out of North Mechanic Street in front of a car being driven west on Baltimore Street by Melvin H. Smith, 22, of 912 Yale Street.

Moore and Rose Mary Smith, 18, of Route 2, Phoenixville, Pa., were treated at local hospitals and were released. Officer James H. Snyder filed reckless driving charges against both drivers.

J. Homer VanSant, 812 Elwood Lane, timekeeper for the Western Maryland Railway, was reported in "good" condition last night at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday with head and jaw injuries suffered in a fall while working.

Man Chokes Self In Fork Of Tree At Local Park

A 57-year-old former Cumberlander was found choked to death in the fork of a small tree in Constitution Park New Year's morning, and police labeled his death a suicide.

Percy Eugene Thompson, of Star Route, Everett, Pa., was found with his neck wedged into the crotch of the tree by a 17-year-old boy who ran against his body while tracking rabbits in the snow.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Thompson's death was suicide by strangulation.

Lt. James E. Van, head of the Detective Bureau, said Thomas Buser, 17, of 540 Eastern Avenue, and Kenneth Wilmont, 16, of 523 Ford Avenue, were on their way home at 3:30 a. m. after putting in a night's work as ushers at a local theater.

Youths Find Body

Using a flashlight to track rabbits in the snow, they stumbled upon the body, and notified Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, who called police.

Police said Thompson's neck was wedged into the fork of a small tree about 4½ feet from the ground. His knees were a few inches from the ground. He had $28 and a gold watch in his pockets.

At 9 p. m. New Year's Eve, Dr. Deming related, Thompson left a cousin's house, informed her he would be back the following day. He placed the death as 2 a. m. Thursday about one hour and a half before the body was discovered.

Funeral Set Today

Dr. Deming said Thompson had worked at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here up until two years ago when he underwent an operation for simple mastoid.

In ill health, he had often threatened suicide, the medical examiner said his relatives pointed out.

The victim was born September 24, 1894, a son of William and Margaret (Cooper) Thompson. He was single and roomed at various places, having only Star Route, Everett, address as a permanent one.

Thompson is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Beck of Everett, Pa., and Mrs. Inez Beck, of Star Route, Everett.

The body is at the Conner Funeral Home, Everett, where services will be conducted today at 2 p. m. by Rev. Walter W. Twigg of Flintstone. Interment will be in Clearville Union Cemetery.

GOP Delegates Caucus In Annapolis Tuesday

Minority Leaders Will Be Appointed

Members of the Allegany County Delegation will leave here Tuesday for Annapolis to attend a Republican caucus planned that night in preparation for the opening of the General Assembly on January 7.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the delegation, said the events Tuesday will get underway at Carvel Hall at 7 p. m. at a dinner given by the Republican State Central Committee for all Republican members of the Legislature.

Maryland GOP Congressmen have been invited to sit in on the meetings.

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin is expected to give the principal address and to outline Republican strategy for the 90-day session of the Assembly.

Following the dinner, Chairman See said, Republican members of the House and Senate will go into separate caucuses to elect minority leaders.

Informed sources said Arthur H. Green, Garrett County, who was House minority leader in the 1951 session, and J. Douglas Bradshaw, Montgomery County, are expected to be candidates for the post of House minority leader.

Senator Robert B. Kimble, Allegany County, present Senate minority leader, is expected to be a candidate for the same post in the Senate, the Delegation reported.

Members of the county delegation, Delegate See reported, expect the coming long session of the Assembly to be a busy one, especially since they will have a heavy slate of county legislation to act upon.

Scores of bills have been proposed to the legislators by groups in Allegany County, but no actual bills have been presented to the Delegation.

See stressed that although the Delegation has informally indicated support of several measures, it has made no commitments and has not held a formal meeting on the legislative log.

He said all indications point to a "hectic" session, since a number of controversial bills, both local and statewide, are due to be dropped into the legislative hoppers.

The legislators again stressed that all local bills should be introduced early in the session if they are to have a good chance for passage.

Allegany County will be represented by Senator Kimble and Delegates Noel Speir Cook, Frostburg, Fred B. Driscoll, Cumberland; Estel C. Kelley, Cumberland; Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage; Charles M. See, Cumberland, and Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport.

Four Die In Md. Holiday Accidents

[By The Associated Press]

The deaths of a Frederick County youth and a soldier stationed at Edgewood, Md., raised to four the number of traffic fatalities in Maryland in the long New Year's holiday period.

John Calvin McElfresh, 18, of near Frederick, died of a fractured skull in Frederick Memorial Hospital Friday after the car he was driving crashed into a tree. McElfresh was the only person in the car and since there were no witnesses police were unable to say what caused the accident. The car was demolished.

Pfc. Thomas F. Branschreiber, 23, of Milwaukee, was killed when his car crashed into a bridge abutment on State Route 7 in Harford County near Abingdon Thursday night. He was stationed at the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood.

The tabulation of holiday deaths started at 6 p. m. New Year's Eve and will continue until 11:59 Sunday night. Fifteen persons were killed accidentally in the four-day Christmas holiday period in Maryland.

Take Personnel Course

Two local B. and O. officials will attend a human relations course planned in Annapolis next week by the personnel department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

They are E. H. Martin, general foreman of the Reclamation plant, and G. A. McGinn, chief clerk of the division.

Police Continue To Sift Clues In Meister Case

Their investigation practically stalemated, state and county authorities last night sifted and rechecked a welter of rumors and tips on the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Odessa Frances Meister from her home here two weeks ago today.

Yesterday morning, police issued an appeal for information from anyone who may know anything about what may have happened to Mrs. Meister.

All available clues, they said, have been exhausted, but some rumors still have not been thoroughly rechecked because of the difficulty of evaluating information which already is on hand.

Only this much is known for certain:

Mrs. Meister left her home at 104 Columbia Street at about 2 p. m. on Saturday, December 20, to catch her bus to the Celanese plant at Amcelle, where she was to report for work on the 3-to-11 p. m. shift.

Seen On Bus

Two people told police they were certain that they remembered having seen Mrs. Meister board the bus. They got off at the main gate, but paid no attention whether Mrs. Meister left the bus at that point or rode on to the C. A. gate several hundred yards further down the road.

Mrs. Meister, who was wearing a blue dress and red coat, disappeared somewhere between the bus and her section at the plant, where a paycheck was awaiting her. She never reported for work.

On December 26, a small boy found Mrs. Meister's red shoulder-type pocketbook in Bowman's Addition at the other end of town. A handkerchief and some bobby pins which may have been hers also were found.

Whether Mrs. Meister was in Bowman's Addition or whether someone else dropped her pocketbook there is not known. The rest, say police, must be supposition until more concrete clues are found.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator, and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya issued their appeal for information yesterday after the latest lead in the case fizzled.

To Search Locker

That was the discovery by two small boys of torn clothing by a lake at St. Charles College near Catonsville. The clothing was found December 26, the same day Mrs. Meister's pocketbook was found here.

The clothing was relayed here by Baltimore County police. Baker and Lilya showed it to Mrs. Meister's husband, Thomas, to her daughter, Nancy, 11 and to two of her sisters. All said it was not Mrs. Meister's.

Last night, Baker termed "absurd" the theory that Mrs. Meister may have been the victim of a sex criminal in this area. It had been reported that an anonymous woman told police Mrs. Meister had known a man who once was convicted for a sex crime.

As it turned out, Baker said, the man in question had once been convicted of simple assault. He added that the report had been thoroughly checked and had been written off as being too far-fetched.

Baker also said Mrs. Meister's locker at the Celanese plant will be searched on Monday.

Area Past Masters Plan Annual Meeting

The Past Masters Association of Western Maryland will hold its annual meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple here.

A dinner will be held at 6:15 p. m., preceding the meeting.

Four Bakeries Drop Deliveries On Wednesdays

Five-Day Week Starts Sunday

Four Allegany County bakeries have entered into an agreement with Local Union No. 453, Teamsters AFL, whereby Wednesday deliveries by the driver-salesmen will be eliminated beginning next week.

Under this new agreement, the driver-salesmen will work a five-day week with Wednesdays and Sundays as regular holidays.

Wednesday deliveries will be made only during holiday weeks. During those weeks, deliveries will be made on Wednesday instead of on the holiday. In a form letter to all food merchants in the area, the four bakeries explain that only those holidays which are recognized by Local 453 will be considered as making a holiday week.

"We recognize that some problems and inconveniences for all concerned may arise from this change," the form letter said. "It is our sincere hope that you will help us to work out these problems and eliminate any inconveniences.

"One of these problems will be that of placing the proper amount of bakery products in your place of business on Tuesdays so that you will not run short on Wednesday. Please help our salesmen in this matter so that sales at the plants on Wednesdays will be not be necessary."

The letter notes that Article 3, Paragraph 4a-2 of the contract with Local 453, Teamsters Union, reads:

"No Sunday, holiday or Wednesday deliveries by anyone in any manner, and furthermore no sales in any manner shall be made from any bakery on Sundays, Wednesdays or holidays."

Similar agreements providing for a five-day work week have been made by other bakeries in the area in the past year. The Wednesday delivery elimination will have no major effect for many independent grocers who are open only half day on Wednesdays. Those who are open all day Wednesdays will have to place much larger Tuesday orders than in the past.

Bakeries involved in the new agreement are Community Baking Company, Inc., McIntyre's Bakery, Inc., Ort Brothers Bakery, Inc., and Schmidt Baking Company, Inc.

Myers Gives Tawes Big Pat On Back

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP) — Del. August M. Myers (D-Balto 6th) today called State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes the Democratic party's best potential leader in Maryland — both now "and two years hence."

Myers earlier this week withdrew from a coalition of city legislators backing Del. Chester W. Tawney (D-Balto 3d) as a candidate for speaker of the house, a position now occupied by Del. John C. Luber (D-Balto 5th).

He said when he joined the move to oust Luber that he did not know it was inspired by James H. Pollack, Fourth District leader.

In a letter to Pollack announcing his withdrawal, Myers said there was "nothing personal" in the move.

His endorsement of Tawes, taken to mean he would support the Eastern Shore leader as the party's candidate for governor in 1954, was an attempt to "clarify" his political position, Myers said.

"It has appeared to me for a long time that the Democratic party is splitting at the seams instead of striving for party harmony," Myers said today.

"In my opinion the Democratic party is blessed with a strong potential leader in the person of J. Millard Tawes, if only Mr. Tawes would step forward and accept this leadership," Myers said.

He described the state comptroller as "the only man who has the background and experience to gain the confidence of the electorate and lead the Democratic party to victory two years hence."

Myers said he left the coalition against Luber because he realized it did not offer "a real solution to the problems."

Four Recent Thefts Solved By City Police

Police last night said they had cleared at least four recent thefts and acts of vandalism with the arrest of a 16-year-old East Side boy.

Detective Leo E. P. Law said he picked up the youth last night for questioning in the theft of $19 from Street's Repair Shop on Willowbrook Road on Thursday.

He said the boy admitted complicity in that theft and in others dating back to September.

Law quoted the youth as saying he broke into the Cumberland Country Club last month, stole golf clubs, golf bags and tees, a camera and soft drinks.

The boy reportedly admitted breaking into a parked car on Harding Avenue and stealing a camera, tools, papers and cigarets. Law said the boy also tore doors off another car on Yale Street recently.

He reportedly admitted turning in several false fire alarms in the last few weeks, and said he had been planning to commit another burglary before he was arrested last night.

Law lodged the boy in City Jail pending further investigation.

Town Creek Valley Gets Dial Service

Dial telephones have been placed in operation in the Town Creek Valley.

The system will operate through the Flintstone automatic exchange, according to Richard E. Harman, manager of the Cumberland telephone office.

At present, there are about 17 customers on the line, which was a project of the Town Creek Valley Club.

FAREWELL PARTY — Fellow employes at Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America are shown presenting several gifts to Randolph J. Jewell, who is leaving in a few weeks to accept a position in the Customer Service Department of Celanese in New York City. Some 30 persons attended the dinner party last night at Ali Ghan Country Club. Jewell, who has been connected here with Celanese since 1934, is supervisor in charge of customer warping. In the picture, William A. Deremer, who served as toastmaster, is presenting a pen and pencil set and gift certificate to Jewell. Standing, left to right, are Harry A. Smith, assistant superintendent of textiles; Harry S. Lannon, W. J. Bolt, Deremer, Melvin H. Long, R. D. Peebles, Jewell, W. E. McCormick, who will succeed Jewell here, and B. O. Waite, superintendent of textiles. The affair was held as a surprise party for Jewell by his associates.

Washington-Cumberland Favor Proposed Parkway; Frederick-Hagerstown Object

Official Sanction Given Federally Financed Project By Department Of Interior And State Roads Commission

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two articles on the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio canal parkway. It deals with the pros and cons of the project, as reflected by official groups and by the communities involved.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP) — Sentiment for and against the proposed parkway along the old Chesapeake and Ohio canal depends almost entirely on where you live along its scenic route.

Washington and Cumberland, at either end, are strongly in favor of the project. Frederick and Hagerstown, in between, are generally hostile to the plan to build the two-lane highway.

The Interior Department has recommended to Congress that the Federal government build the 168-mile roadway, reporting that the Public Roads Administration figured after a 1949 survey that the cost would run $17,107,000.

The government owns the C. & O. canal right-of-way, which amounts to more than 5,000 acres. It stipulated that Maryland would have to buy the additional land needed — 11,900 acres — for its part of the bargain.

Unofficial estimates of the cost of this land run from $1.5 million to $2 million.

One state agency appears to be viewing the overall project with a skeptical eye but has indicated it would cooperate if it wouldn't have to put much money in it. Another state group opposes it.

Last month Chairman Russell McCain of the State Roads Commission wrote I. Alvin Pasarew of the State Planning Commission and acting chairman of the Joint Committee on the C&O Canal Parkway:

"While this new parkway..is not as important as other roads in the overall highway planning of Maryland, if it could be secured by the state furnishing the right-of-way and the Federal government defraying all construction costs it would—in the opinion of the State Roads Commission—be a worthwhile investment."

On the other hand, the Board of Natural Resources believes the parkway would inflict serious harm to the wildlife habitat in the area and opposes the move.

Skeptical On Cost

Several groups and individuals in the state are openly skeptical of the cost estimate, figuring it would cost many millions more than the $17 million estimated by the Public Roads Administration. Now let's take a look at the local sentiment, going up the river from Washington to Cumberland:

Harry T. Thompson, associate superintendent of the National Capital Parks in Washington, sees the parkway as a "gilt-edged proposition" where Maryland would be getting a highway up the Potomac for only 10 cents on the dollar.

Public Roads Commissioner Thomas H. MacDonald also says he is "very much in favor" of the proposal because it would "offer an arterial route for passenger cars leading to the northwest out of the district and help cut down congested travel."

Frederick Opposition

Up the line a bit to Frederick, no official position has been taken by city officials or the chamber of commerce, but opposition is evident from both quarters. Both see it as a development that would hurt Frederick, since it would divert traffic away from the community.

Emmert R. Bowlus, president of the Frederick County Fish and Game Protective Association, put it this way:

"Members of our organization see no necessity for the proposed canal parkway. If the Federal government has so many millions to waste on such a project, it might be better if it were returned to the public in the form of a tax reduction. A few millions here and a few millions there could make a difference.

"Our organization is prepared to fight the parkway proposal to a finish."

Sportsmen Object

Dr. W. A. R. Bell of near Lewistown, president of the Frederick chapter of the Izaak Walton League and a recognized soil conservationist, said:

"It did not surprise me to learn that the State Roads Commission favors the building of an express highway on the old C&O canal right-of-way, for it would add 185 miles of road to the Maryland highway system almost gratis.

"The fact that it is not needed—

Baltimore City Harder Hit Than Counties

During 1952, mortality in Maryland increased slightly and this increase applied to most causes of death except tuberculosis and homicide according to a report to Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of health, submitted by Dr. A. W, Hedrich, chief, Division of Vital Records and Statistics of the Maryland State Department of Health.

The general death rate increased by about 3.6 per cent and represented a reversal of the trend during recent years. The increase was somewhat greater for Baltimore City than for the counties of Maryland. Percentagewise, the major increases in the City were for non-vehicle accident mortality, syphilis, and diabetes whereas in the counties, the major increases were for influenza pneumonia and cerebral hemorrhage.

Mortality rates were also higher for infant paralysis and meningococcus meningitis. The rise of the latter disease is significant as indications are that it may continue into 1953, for this disease tends to increase particularly during periods of war and heavy population movement.

Mortality Increases

The report shows the mortality rates during the last two years and the percentage change for specific diseases in the State as a whole. For each of the five diseases affecting most heavily the years of maturity, the mortality rose somewhat. The heaviest increases was for cerebral hemorrhage, a disease associated with high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. For this disease the mortality rose by 11.5 per cent and this increase was much heavier in the counties of Maryland than in the city. Another striking contrast is that the diabetes rate last year apparently rose in Baltimore City by about 14 per cent against an actual decline in the counties. The cancer mortality also rose moderately and part of this rise must be attributed to the steady aging of the population and probably somewhat to better diagnosis particularly among the rural population.

None of the acute communicable diseases showed heavy epidemics but in the early part of the year there was in the counties of Maryland a fairly sharp increase in mortality from influenza and pneumonia over the preceding year; although in relation to the average of recent years the mortality was not high. Baltimore City showed no such increase.

Two diseases attacking the nervous system, poliomyelitis and meningococcus meningitis, showed increases over the entire State.

Poliomyelitis deaths increased from 5 to 13 during the year ending November 30 and meningococcus meningitis deaths went from 16 to 29.

A study from this Department published in May, 1952, indicated that the meningococcus meningitis mortality has slowly been rising during recent years over most of the United States.

Since this disease is exceptional in that it frequently takes 3 to 5 years to reach its peak, current indications are that the rise will last through the spring of 1953 and possibly longer in some areas. The number of reported cases of the disease is not large but due to its rapid course, the fatality among those attacked is high.

For both poliomyelitis and meningococcus meningitis, the increases were much heavier among white than among colored.

Alarming Increase

The rise of approximately 18.5 per cent in the syphilis mortality rate is somewhat surprising as the mortality had been declining rather steadily during recent years.

The increase was about twice as heavy in the city as in the counties and it is further noteworthy that this increase in syphilis mortality occurred almost exclusively among whites where it was nearly 50 per cent, against a much smaller rise for the colored.

Reports of new cases of syphilis (primary and secondary only) in the State numbered only 194 during the year representing an actual drop of 39 per cent from the figure of 317 reports for the preceding year. Although more detailed study is needed in order to interpret the rise in syphilis mortality, present indications are that the deaths occurred mainly among relatively old cases and that the prevalence of syphilis in the population is not actually increasing.

Tuberculosis Declined

Tuberculosis was one of the few diseases for which the mortality declined in 1952; the drop in the city was about 10 per cent against 6 per cent decline in the counties. The percentage decline was more than twice as great for whites as for colored and was heaviest among Baltimore City whites.

Admissions to tuberculosis sanatoria, however, remain high, particularly since many remain for treatment who formerly would have died.

Suicide Declines

During the year the suicide mortality dropped by 10.9 per cent and all of this decline occurred in Baltimore City where the drop in rate was actually 32.7 per cent against a rise of 3.8 per cent in the counties.

On the other hand, the homicide rate increased 5 per cent during the year and practically all of this increase occurred in the counties of Maryland.

Accidents of all types remain a major mortality problem. Non-motor vehicle accident mortality increased 6.8 per cent against an increase of 2.3 per cent for the motor vehicle type.

The increase in motor vehicle deaths occurred solely in the counties, the city rate actually declining 6 per cent; but the increase in mortality from "other accidents" for some strange reason occurred solely in Baltimore City.

Infant and Maternal Rate

There was a very small increase (1.7 per cent) in the infant mortality rate which was limited to the counties of Maryland.

There was also an increase in the maternal deaths, the number rising from 28 to 40. This increase occurred both among white and colored.

Marriages and Births

A total of 46,612 marriages was reported during the year, a decrease of about 5 per cent below the 1951 figure. Both of these figures are heavily loaded with non-residents coming to Maryland to be married. Like the marriages, the 4,861 divorces granted in 1952 showed a small decline (about 1.5 per cent) from the number reported for the preceding year.

There were 57,359 births in the State during the year, an increase of 3.4 per cent over last year. The birth rate per thousand population, rose in the State from 23.1 to 23.4. There was a rise of about 2.5 per cent in the white rate and a 2 per cent decline in the colored birth rate. 97.0 per cent of the births were attended by physicians in 1952.

First Women Report Monday For Jury Duty

Grand Jurors Will Begin Investigations

For the first time in Allegany County's history, two women will report for grand jury duty at 10 a. m. Monday when the January term of Circuit Court gets underway.

Women on the grand jury are Clara W. Walters of Corriganville and Margaret Hepburn of Lonaconing.

Voters Approve

In a county-wide referendum November 4, voters overwhelmingly endorsed jury service for women.

Light Docket Seen

Court attaches report that a comparatively light docket is expected for the January term.

Some 29 witnesses, principally law enforcement officers from communities around the county, have been summoned to testify before the grand jury Monday after the charge is given. Only one witness for Tuesday had been summoned up to last night.

The 25 petit jurors will not have to report until 9:15 a. m. Monday, January 19. Criminal trials probably will be heard that week.

Blood Bank Will Visit Cumberland Monday, Tuesday

Some 120 more donors are needed for the Johnstown Mobile Blood Unit to reach its quota on its two-day visit to Cumberland Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. W. Lee Witherup, executive secretary of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter, said last night.

About 120 persons are scheduled to give blood at the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, between noon and 6 p. m. Monday. Between 50 and 80 more are scheduled for the same hours Tuesday. Mrs. Witherup said that the blood bank must get 120 productive pints of blood each day that the unit is here. Considering cancellations, rejections and those who are unable to give a full pint of blood, about 150 donors must be scheduled each day to get the 120 pint quota.

The Johnstown unit also is planning a visit to Lonaconing in February and Frostburg in March.

Weather

Yesterday's cloudy weather was mixed with lingering fog all day long and was reported becoming heavier last night. Temperatures at the same time remained below freezing in the Cumberland area. Maryland State Police reported snow began falling late last night east and west of the Queen City, and said traveling may get hazardous later this morning.. Light snow fell in the city. High temperature yesterday was 31, according to Constitution Park weather station; low was 25 and at 7 p. m., mercury stood at 30 degrees. Forecast for today is windy turning gradually colder with a few snow flurries.
